Housewives of this city now look forward to Biddy Bye's tips on cooking and culinary art, which appear each week in the Sunday Supplement of The Sun; published each Saturday.

MEETING OF PARK COMMISSION

The members of the park commission held a meeting at city hall last evening and in the course of the evening plans for the closing season of the playground season were outlined and put in shape. It was voted to charge $5 for the privilege of vending foodstuffs on the commons for the remainder of the season, and four tree petitions were read and referred to the free committee.

The meeting was called to order at 7:40 o'clock by Chairman McKay with all members present with the exception of Mr. Wood. Philippe Vincent asked that a tree in Spaulding street be removed because of the fact that the tree was throwing too much shade on his house and also that two of its large limbs were dead and dangerous. Victor C. Salois, in a communication to the board, stated that a large tree at 175 Cross street is obstructing the sidewalk and part of it is resting on the roof of the building. A petition from John H. Harrington asking that two trees at 2 Park street be removed, was read. Fannie H. Murphy asked that a tree at 45 Twelfth street be removed. The tree roots are growing into the sewer pipe and clogging the sewer with the result that her cellar is being flooded. The four petitions were referred to the free committee.

William Ronald and David Hartnett asked permission to sell frankfurters on the commons Saturday afternoons. They stated they have been conducting a business on the commons for the past three years and were never interfered with until a couple of weeks ago when they were ordered away by an officer. After discussing the matter the board voted to sell a fee of $5 for the remainder of the season.

The development of the wading pool on the South commons was considered and it was decided to adopt final plans at a meeting of the board to be held next Monday afternoon.

The plans for the closing season of the playground season were then taken up and it was decided to hold the event Thursday afternoon, Aug. 30, a pageant representing the important seasons and events in Lowell's history will be staged by 2000 children under the personal direction of Mrs. Julian H. Keyes. In the evening a concert for adults will be conducted on the green for adults. Further details of the pageant will be given at a later date.

The monthly financial report of the superintendent was presented and accepted. The report showed that during the month of July the sum of $1,743.70 was spent for labor, which was $1,733.33 were paid during the month. On Aug. 7 there remained a balance from the park appropriation of $4787.14. The balance for the dry cleaning appropriation on Aug. 7 was $2587.08.

$16,000,000 NAVY CLOTH CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Contracts have been let by the navy department for 4,500,000 yards of woolen uniform cloth at an aggregate cost of more than $16,000,000. This is the largest purchase of woolen cloth ever made by the navy and is one of the most important placed in the history of the textile trade.

The contracts, it was announced, last night, have been distributed among 35 firms in various parts of the country. About 15,000,000 pounds of wool is required for the manufacture of the cloth. It will make 1,000,000 shirts, 200,000 pairs of trousers and 350,000 overcoats and will be delivered over a period of about seven months.

SHOT AND KILLED HIS FATHER AND MOTHER

FRESNO, Calif., Aug. 8.—A. S. Gary, aged 37, graduate of a theological college in Massachusetts, yesterday shot and killed his aged father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Surkis Maghakian, at their ranch near Selma, Fresno county, according to a confession in the hands of the district attorney. Gary said he killed his parents because they had swindled him out of his ranch.

Gary had his name changed from Maghakian a short time after his arrival in this country from Armenia.

FATALLY INJURED IN THE BOOTT MILLS

John Batish, residing at 14 Bradford street, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon while at work in the Boott mills, dying shortly after being taken to the Lowell hospital.

The accident happened about 4:30 o'clock when Batish was caught in a machine at which he was working and horribly mangled. One of the man's arms was torn off and his head was crushed in. A hurry call for the ambulance was sent in and the man was taken to the Lowell hospital with all possible speed, but he died a few minutes after reaching the hospital.

PUBLIC MARKET BIG SUCCESS

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 8.—More than 3000 women attended the opening of the new municipal market on the tract at Broadway and Vernon street yesterday, started by the city council and financed by the city of Springfield.

It is fashioned after the old world idea and is a producer-to-consumer experiment. Twenty-five loads of vegetables from the farms were all sold in about one hour and the farmers were on their way home with their pockets filled with money, ready to perform eight or ten hours' labor in the fields.

Lester I. Dygert, chairman of the Central Labor union food conservation committee, was present to observe the progress of the buying and study the crowds. He stated that fully 70 per cent of the patrons were from the laboring classes. He said there were twice as many patrons as could be supplied.

So many were obliged to go without vegetables that a committee was organized to go among the consumers and urge them to come again Thursday, when more produce was promised. The consensus of opinion was, however, that the opening day demonstrated the success of the venture beyond the expectation of the municipal committee.

Prices were much lower than the produce could be bought for in the retail stores. One farmer sold a load of new potatoes for $1 and the lowest figure at which potatoes have been sold at in Springfield for more than a year.

With green corn selling for 50 cents a dozen in the stores, one farmer disposed of a load of 2500 ears at 10 cents a dozen. He said that at that price he was making money over selling the corn to a wholesaler. If the market continues to prove the success Thursday and Saturday that it is considering keeping it open daily, beginning next week.

"DEADLY RESULTS TO RULING CLASSES"

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 8.—"Deadly results to the ruling classes" are threatened in telegrams received last night by Gov. Stuart from eastern locals of the Industrial Workers of the World should other members of the order be lynched. The threats are an outcome of the lynching at Butte last week of Frank H. Little, an organizer and leader of the organization.

DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT IN GERMANY SLIPPING

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 7.—The democratic movement in Germany which reformers were sure was getting such a splendid start in the recent reichstag crisis seems now to be slipping down grade backwards. The liberal and radical newspapers in Germany generally interpret the selection by Dr. Michaelis, the chancellor of his colleagues as a distinct rejection of the principle of parliamentarism or parliamentary influence upon the administration.

The socialist organ Vorwaerts announces that the cabinet members, Spahn, Krause and Mueller enter the government as individuals, not as party representatives. Therefore the party assumes no responsibility therefore, but retains completely a free hand toward the government. Here Mueller particularly has long had no active connection with the socialist party and has a purely administrative administrative non-political post.

Vorwaerts declares that the present government must be the last of its kind and must be supplanted by a government of the people. Dr. Michaelis also is getting further away from the reichstag peace resolution, even as he interprets it, as the days pass. The phrase in his speech "fulfill peace" was printed in black-face type.

Reports to the Associated Press from Germany say that Dr. Michaelis now has been hailed by the advocates of greater Germany as a new Bismarck. An enthusiastic outburst of celebration from an independent committee for German peace that saw Dr. Michaelis off at the Dresden railway station was a speech which was widely applauded, greeting him as a worthy successor of the old blood and iron chancellor. Dr. Michaelis, according to the published reply to his speech, was modestly silent regarding it.

DEFINES DUTY OF GUARDS AND CONSTABULARY

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—At a meeting yesterday of the staff officers of the State Guard at the state house, Brig. Gen. Butler Ames announced that the state has agreed to furnish colors for the State Guard troops. He also exhibited for inspection the new brassard which will be worn by members of the guard. The general explained that the State Guard and the local constabulary organization differ widely in their purpose and authority. He pointed out that the State Guard assumed the duties of the National Guard now in the federal service, taking all its powers and being responsible to the governor, whereas the local constabulary organizations have no more power than times of peace and can be held personally responsible for their acts except when the persons apprehended are actually committing crimes.

In explanation Gen. Ames said: "Members of local constabulary, no matter how sure they are that a person or persons intend committing a crime, have no legal right to apprehend them until they actually are committing the crime. For instance, they may hold today, Premier Kerensky, who presided said the cabinet must concentrate all its attention on national defense and organization of the country, principally in connection with financial and economic affairs. He addressed to the members of the cabinet to redouble their efforts toward organizing and consolidating the government."

Foreign Minister Terestchenko who left later for general headquarters accompanied by M. Dismant, the Russian minister, said the government had decided to abolish the post of procurator general of the Holy Synod and create a ministry of public worship.

BLAME WILSON FOR CHINA ENTERING WAR

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8.—Austro-Hungarian newspapers according to a telegram from Vienna, view China's declaration of war as the work of the declaration, especially President Wilson. It is, these papers assert, aimed at German and Austro-Hungarian business interests in China to oust troublesome trade competitors by furnishing the Chinese a pretext for not paying their debts and rescind railway and mining concessions granted to Austrians and Germans, to confiscate Austro-German capital invested in the country, seize their ships and intern their subjects.

INCREASE PRICE OF ALL ONE CENT PAPERS

PARIS, Aug. 7.—An inter-ministerial press committee which consists of delegates representing the Parisian and Provincial press and the ministers of commerce and interior has decided that one cent papers shall increase the price to two cents on Aug. 15, when they will be permitted to appear as four page papers five times weekly instead of twice as at present.

The committee's decisions have no legal force, but depend upon the willingness of the newspapers to observe them. Several papers question the possibility of solving the paper crisis on such lines.

The price of paper before the war was 20 francs, now it is 105 francs. A special importation from Scandinavia is advocated, especially as it is no longer possible to count on America which is intransigent says, has more important freight to send.

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Enhaut, Pa.—"I was all run down and weak inwardly. I had female troubles and nervous feelings, and my head bothered me. I would often have crying spells and feel as if I was not safe. If I heard anyone coming I would run and lock the door so they would not see me. I tried several doctors and they did not help me so I said to myself 'I guess I will have to die as there is no help for me.' She got me one of your little books and my husband said I should try one bottle. I studied the doctor's medicine and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. # U. S. ARMY ON EUROPEAN BASIS

Reorganization Ordered—Infantry Division Reduced to 19,000 Men

Corps Revived—Larger Proportion of Artillery and Machine Guns

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A reorganization of American army units, under which the division totalling 28,000 round unwieldy for service on European battlefields, is abandoned for the continental unit of about 19,000 men, has been ordered by the war department.

Under the new plan a division will include only two infantry brigades of two regiments each, in place of three brigades of three regiments each under the old scheme.

Many other organization changes are made, including a material increase in the artillery and machine gun strength of each division. The cavalry regiments now included in each division is detached, a new trench mortar battery is added and the old army corps plan abandoned after the Civil War is again put in operation.

Changes of the National Guard as now constituted, will be realigned in conformity with the new plan after the guardmen reach their training camps. No changes in camp assignments. It is presumed, will be involved. The national army will be organized from the start under this plan.

So far as the regulars are concerned, it has been understood that the reorganization already has been carried out for the units now in France.

General Order Issued

The war department order was announced in a statement issued by the public information committee last night as follows:

"A general order made public by the adjutant general's office today provides for important changes in the organization of the army.

"The ratio of artillery strength to infantry is greatly increased. A division will hereafter include only four infantry regiments in two brigades in place of the old division of three brigades, each comprising three regiments of infantry. There will still be three regiments of field artillery in each division, and a trench mortar battery is attached to each division.

"The machine gun arm is also materially enlarged. A machine gun battalion of four companies has been made in each division, in addition to the three machine gun companies included in each regiment.

"The American division will be made by this order to conform with the continental unit of about 19,000 men, among whom a division numbers approximately 19,000 men.

Larger Division Unwieldy

"The reason for the change is that the division as heretofore made up of about 28,000 men, is too unwieldy for the demands of trench warfare. With so large a unit, it is difficult to maintain contact with all parts in the front. The problem to be met was basically of mobility for the peculiar needs of fighting on the western front.

"The smaller divisions call for the maintenance of all units at fighting strength. For this purpose reserve battalions will be provided. These will consist of 512 men each and are listed in the general order as separate training battalions. The number of these battalions has not been made public because of military reasons.

"The new order calls for army corps and armies, units which have practically existed only on paper since the Civil War. Corps were organized during the Spanish war, but were not actually operate as such to any great extent.

"The new army corps will consist of three infantry division corps headquarters and certain army corps troops not specified. Each army will normally consist of three or more army corps, army headquarters and certain army troops not specified.

The New Infantry Division

"Under the new order each infantry division will be composed as follows, the changes from the present organization being indicated:

"One division headquarters (same as at present).

"One machine gun battalion of four companies (new).

"Two infantry brigades of two regiments and one machine gun battalion (four companies) each. (The present division is three infantry brigades of three regiments each.)

"One field artillery brigade of three regiments and one trench mortar battery (same, except trench mortar battery is new).

"One field signal battalion (same).

"One train headquarters and military police (same).

"One ammunition train (same).

"One train headquarters and military police (same).

"One supply train (same).

"One engineer train (same, except that pontoon and searchlight sections are not included in new plan.)

"One sanitary train of four field hospital companies and four ambulance companies (same).

No Division Cavalry

"The new organization provides for no cavalry in the division. The division as at present constituted calls for one regiment of cavalry. The present division also calls for one aero squadron, while the new plan calls for none, the aircraft units being otherwise provided for.

"The order specifies 16 divisions of the National army to be organized and numbered from 16 to 31, both inclusive, and states the numbers to be given to each of the different units in each division. It provides that the 16 divisions of the National Guard now organized shall be reorganized to conform to the new plan as soon as practicable after their arrival in the training camp.

"The regular army, the National Guard and the national army will all conform to the same plan."

ST. JOHNSBURY, Aug. 8.—Although continued search has failed to disclose any trace of the body of Alice Bradshaw, the eight-year-old child who is believed to have been murdered on July 6, evidence in the case will be presented to the September grand jury, it was learned last night.

County Attorney Campbell said that while the search for the body had been virtually abandoned for some weeks, the state had no intention of setting free the two women who are alleged to have confessed that they killed the girl—Mrs. Alvin Kennison and Miss Fina Hicks.

Since their arrest following the disappearance of the child, the women have remained at the county jail here, although no formal charge has been made against them, and no hearing has been held. Both Mrs. Hicks, who was formerly housekeeper for John Bradshaw, Alice's father, and Mrs. Kennison, a neighbor of the Bradshaws, have refused to give any information as to what was done with the girl's body notwithstanding an alleged readiness on their part, according to the officials, to admit that the little girl was put out of the way because she was a bother. It was said last night that there was a likelihood that the women might be removed from the jail and placed on at Windsor, partly for observation as to the mental condition.

FOUR AMERICANS LOST ON BRITISH STEAMER

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Four Americans were lost on the British steamer Belgian Prince which was sunk July 31 by a German submarine. One American, it is thought, is still alive.

The Americans who lost their lives were William Crissy or Hughes Philadelphia; James Shaw, Detroit; Thomas Gilmore, Merrick, Mass.; and Ben Cain, a negro, Norfolk, Va. The sole American survivor is William Snell, a negro from Jacksonville, Fla. The consul at a British port today heard from him the story of the murder of the crew.

Thirty-eight of the crew of the steamer were drowned and three others were rescued by a patrol boat and taken to a British port. According to the survivors the U-boat submerged while the crew of the Belgian Prince was on the submarine's deck, most of them without lifeboats.

Help Save the Nation by Helping the Nation Save

THERE is a difference between saving and self-denial. Giving your family pure foods, keeping well-nourished bodies, maintaining normal strength and normal appetite is cheaper than paying doctor bills.

In fact, raising your table standards may be the truest form of economy. For the difference between extravagance and thrift is not a question of how much you spend, but the value received.

The housewife's problem has always been to select the best values for her money. We have simplified that problem by putting the Oval Label on our top-grade foods, definitely assuring highest quality and value. And this identifying mark appears on a large list of Package Foods—Vegetables, Meats, Condiments, Soups, Lard, Vegetable Shortening, Butter, Grape Juice, Sausage and Oleomargarine.

Always a mark of highest quality, the Armour Oval Label, under present conditions, becomes the symbol of true economy. It indicates the highest food value and the purity in preparation that preserves health. It becomes a true buying guide to every housewife who wants the best.

Serve the nation by eliminating waste. And eliminate the possibility of waste by insisting upon Armour's Quality Products, the line of standardized value.

CORPORAL JACK FAIRBURN

Lance Corporal Jack Fairburn of the 8th Field ambulance, Canadian Expeditionary Force, is visiting in Lowell and is enjoying every minute of his stay here. He lived in Lowell five years and has had the time of his life renewing old acquaintances since his arrival here from St. John, N. B., Saturday evening. He was allowed a four days furlough and will have to return to his headquarters at St. John this evening and the early morning of tomorrow. This was his last opportunity to visit Lowell before going overseas, said Corporal Jack, "and I wouldn't have missed it for the world. I have some very dear friends in Lowell and I am enjoying every moment of my stay. When war is over I will come straight back to Lowell. I lived in Belvidere with my uncle, Edward Fairburn, the Concord street marketman, for five years and I think they were the happiest five years of my life. I was employed in the Merrimack mills and I went there yesterday to meet my old associates. I was there the greater part of the afternoon and I never enjoyed a visit more in my life.

"We expect to go overseas in September and I was glad to get a chance to come to Lowell before going across. Somebody said they thought it rather foolish of me to make the trip when I had but four days to spend, but I would make it if I had to mortgage my next month's pay. That was a joke, of course, but that's how I felt about it.

"I have had some very pleasant experiences during my short stay here. On Sunday I went to Tyngsboro to visit friends and when I got there I found they were away. It was somewhat of a disappointment to me and I was gloomily walking along the highway towards Lowell when an automobile swept by. I had gone but a little way when suddenly it stopped and a voice called out. I approached the machine and found that it was an ex-Canadian soldier who had called. He had been discharged on account of physical disability, but he said his heart was still with the Canadians and he told me that his machine was at my service. I told him I had no place to go but Lowell, and he insisted on bringing me here. I have his card and I will see him again when the war clouds have cleared away.

Triumph to Canadians

Corporal Fairburn said there are quite a number of the United States in St. John. "They are all Canadian soldiers now," he said, "and they are all well and happy. It would be impossible to tell me how they are, for the people there are surely among the best in the world. I always admired the Canadians from the Maritime provinces and now I love them. They never fail to excel the hospitality of the people of St. John and the boys at headquarters are like one big family. I doubt if soldiers anywhere receive such a warm and cordial welcome in St. John. We are invited to picnics and there is always something done to make it pleasant for the soldiers. The rich and the poor in the town here and we will always look upon St. John as one of the happiest spots on earth and we will never forget the kindness of the people here. I have had a great deal of Canadian hospitality and now I know what it means.

"But there is a sad side to the scene there, too. Wounded soldiers are arriving all the time and to see the poor fellows battle scarred and, in many instances, without arms or legs, makes us feel as if we were going to cry. I hope we will be as brave and true as the wounded soldiers of whom I speak. I wish you could meet and talk with them. They are the finest lot of fellows I ever met. And the one thing you would admire most of all is the fact that they do not indulge in bragging. It is difficult to induce a fellow with a leg or arm gone, or perhaps both, to tell you how it happened. It seems as if they must have taken a vow not to blow about themselves. But they are willing to talk of their tricks played upon them in the trenches and of the humorous happenings in the face of death. Believe me, my friend, there are some great fellows going about St. John minus arms and legs."

The Swagger Stick

Corporal Fairburn wore the very attractive uniform of the Canadian soldier with a red cross in a white field on his right sleeve. The uniform is a very attractive one and the corporal confessed since coming to Lowell there have been times when he felt the least bit embarrassed, because of the many eyes thrown his way. "I am not ashamed of the uniform," he said, "but I don't stand looking over my shoulder."

The corporal carried a swagger stick and, of course, his interviewer had to ask him about it. "You see," he said, "we carry the stick for a very simple purpose, that of keeping the hand or hands employed. It is supposed to give us a bit of a secret long and while carrying it we are not liable to so far forget ourselves as to put our hands in our pockets."

THE HEAVENLY TWINS AND FRANK PUTNAM FILE NOMINATION PAPERS

Victor Jewett, Henry Achin and Frank Putnam have filed papers for the nomination for representative in the 15th Middlesex district.

ERNEST FORD "TOUCHED" HARRY TATE

Judges Enright and Pickman presided at this morning's session of the police court, the former hearing a few cases during the early part of the session, after which Judge Pickman took the bench.

Harry Tate, a young man 18 years of age and who claims New York City as his home, but who has been working at the Ayer cantonment, came to this city last night and during the course of his visit to saloons in Middlesex street met Ernest Ford, Ford said that he would show Tate around the city and go to a place where they could have some fun. After the saloons closed the pair went to a dining room and ordered a couple of drinks. Tate paid for $28.07 in money and before retiring put the bills in a bankbook and the latter put the bills in a shirt. After being asleep about 15 minutes he awoke and finding the contents of his pocketbook turned out to be $20.00, he immediately called the police and a investigation found that a $20 bill had been extracted from his bankbook.

Last night the patrolman Boyle and coming across Patrolman Boyle Tate told the officer that Ford had taken $20 from him. He said he had a couple of dollars and produced the money, but the officer upon searching Ford found that he had taken the $20 of his cap. Ford offered no explanation as to how he got it.

In court he denied that he had taken the money from the officer, but Tate denied this. The court found Ford guilty and sentenced him to two months in the house of correction.

Obstructing the Sidewalk

Joseph P. Masterson, Walter Murray and Harry Lowney were charged with obstructing the sidewalk in the vicinity of Housford square on July 31. Patrolman P. Sullivan and O'Keefe testified that the defendants were three of a crowd of young men who were at the time standing on the sidewalk and obstructing the sidewalk. Sullivan said that he had previously warned all three that they would be liable to arrest if they continued to block the sidewalk. Dr. J. McCarty and Miss Ellen O'Leary, mother of the Children's Home, were called. The former testified that he had complained of boys hanging around the sidewalk near his premises, but could not say whether or not the defendants were the boys he had reported. Mrs. O'Leary, however, identified the defendants, but could not say that they were obstructing the sidewalk on the night in question.

The defendants denied that they were obstructing the sidewalk.

Supt. Welch said he did not want to be severe on the boys, but wanted them to understand that they cannot block the sidewalk and suggested that the case be continued for one month in order to see if conditions will improve. Walter Murray was found guilty and discharged, while Masterson and Lowney were found guilty and sentence suspended for one month.

For Non-Support

Patrick J. Cronin was charged with failing to provide for the support of his minor children. Mrs. Cronin said her husband had not given her any money for the support of the children since last January. Cronin was found guilty and ordered to pay $5 a week towards their support.

The case of Nellie J. Kelly, charged with drunkenness, was continued until Saturday. Martin Curtin was sentenced to ten days in jail.

FIRST CALL ON SEPTEMBER 1

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The first men accepted in the state for service in the new national army will be called to the colors on Sept. 1. Orders to this effect received today by Charles F. Gettemy, director of military recruitment, from Governor Mahan, commander of the various camps between Sept. first and fifth. Fully one-third of the state's quota, according to Director Gettemy, will be called on the first day of next month.

Brig. Gen. John C. Edwards, commander of the northeast department, announced that the cantonment at Ayer, known as Camp Devens, would be ready Sept. 1.

Second Call at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 8.—Fully 75 per cent of the men examined by the examination board in the seventh district, comprising a group of small towns in this part of the Connecticut valley have either been physically disqualified or have filed exemption claims, with the result that the board will call about 100 men for examination, it was announced today.

Soldiers Go After Slackers

MALDEN, Aug. 8.—Judge Charles Bruce, chairman of one of the draft examination boards in this city, adopted energetic methods today to compel the appearance of eight men who had failed to respond to the call for physical examination. Under his orders a detachment of soldiers, accompanied by a patrolman, set out in an automobile with instructions to bring the men in. They located the men and brought them before the board.

Wife Blocks Exemption

WORCESTER, Aug. 8.—During the examination of registrants for the draft army yesterday in the 1st Worcester district the telephone bell rang and Sec. George N. Jeppson of the board answered.

"Is this the exemption board of district 12?" asked a female voice.

"It is," responded Mr. Jeppson.

"Well, you are to examine Mr. Blank today. He is my husband. If he asks for exemption, don't pay any attention to him. He never has supported me or given me anything."

Blank asked for exemption, but the board will have another talk with his wife.

CORPORAL JACK FAIRBURN

Lance Corporal Jack Fairburn of the 8th Field ambulance, Canadian Expeditionary Force, is visiting in Lowell and is enjoying every minute of his stay here. He lived in Lowell five years and has had the time of his life renewing old acquaintances since his arrival here from St. John, N. B., Saturday evening. He was allowed a four days furlough and will have to return to his headquarters at St. John this evening and the early morning of tomorrow. This was his last opportunity to visit Lowell before going overseas, said Corporal Jack, "and I wouldn't have missed it for the world. I have some very dear friends in Lowell and I am enjoying every moment of my stay. When war is over I will come straight back to Lowell. I lived in Belvidere with my uncle, Edward Fairburn, the Concord street marketman, for five years and I think they were the happiest five years of my life. I was employed in the Merrimack mills and I went there yesterday to meet my old associates. I was there the greater part of the afternoon and I never enjoyed a visit more in my life.

"We expect to go overseas in September and I was glad to get a chance to come to Lowell before going across. Somebody said they thought it rather foolish of me to make the trip when I had but four days to spend, but I would make it if I had to mortgage my next month's pay. That was a joke, of course, but that's how I felt about it.

"I have had some very pleasant experiences during my short stay here. On Sunday I went to Tyngsboro to visit friends and when I got there I found they were away. It was somewhat of a disappointment to me and I was gloomily walking along the highway towards Lowell when an automobile swept by. I had gone but a little way when suddenly it stopped and a voice called out. I approached the machine and found that it was an ex-Canadian soldier who had called. He had been discharged on account of physical disability, but he said his heart was still with the Canadians and he told me that his machine was at my service. I told him I had no place to go but Lowell, and he insisted on bringing me here. I have his card and I will see him again when the war clouds have cleared away.

Triumph to Canadians

Corporal Fairburn said there are quite a number of the United States in St. John. "They are all Canadian soldiers now," he said, "and they are all well and happy. It would be impossible to tell me how they are, for the people there are surely among the best in the world. I always admired the Canadians from the Maritime provinces and now I love them. They never fail to excel the hospitality of the people of St. John and the boys at headquarters are like one big family. I doubt if soldiers anywhere receive such a warm and cordial welcome in St. John. We are invited to picnics and there is always something done to make it pleasant for the soldiers. The rich and the poor in the town here and we will always look upon St. John as one of the happiest spots on earth and we will never forget the kindness of the people here. I have had a great deal of Canadian hospitality and now I know what it means.

"But there is a sad side to the scene there, too. Wounded soldiers are arriving all the time and to see the poor fellows battle scarred and, in many instances, without arms or legs, makes us feel as if we were going to cry. I hope we will be as brave and true as the wounded soldiers of whom I speak. I wish you could meet and talk with them. They are the finest lot of fellows I ever met. And the one thing you would admire most of all is the fact that they do not indulge in bragging. It is difficult to induce a fellow with a leg or arm gone, or perhaps both, to tell you how it happened. It seems as if they must have taken a vow not to blow about themselves. But they are willing to talk of their tricks played upon them in the trenches and of the humorous happenings in the face of death. Believe me, my friend, there are some great fellows going about St. John minus arms and legs."

The Swagger Stick

Corporal Fairburn wore the very attractive uniform of the Canadian soldier with a red cross in a white field on his right sleeve. The uniform is a very attractive one and the corporal confessed since coming to Lowell there have been times when he felt the least bit embarrassed, because of the many eyes thrown his way. "I am not ashamed of the uniform," he said, "but I don't stand looking over my shoulder."

The corporal carried a swagger stick and, of course, his interviewer had to ask him about it. "You see," he said, "we carry the stick for a very simple purpose, that of keeping the hand or hands employed. It is supposed to give us a bit of a secret long and while carrying it we are not liable to so far forget ourselves as to put our hands in our pockets."

ERNEST FORD "TOUCHED" HARRY TATE

Judges Enright and Pickman presided at this morning's session of the police court, the former hearing a few cases during the early part of the session, after which Judge Pickman took the bench.

Harry Tate, a young man 18 years of age and who claims New York City as his home, but who has been working at the Ayer cantonment, came to this city last night and during the course of his visit to saloons in Middlesex street met Ernest Ford, Ford said that he would show Tate around the city and go to a place where they could have some fun. After the saloons closed the pair went to a dining room and ordered a couple of drinks. Tate paid for $28.07 in money and before retiring put the bills in a bankbook and the latter put the bills in a shirt. After being asleep about 15 minutes he awoke and finding the contents of his pocketbook turned out to be $20.00, he immediately called the police and a investigation found that a $20 bill had been extracted from his bankbook.

Last night the patrolman Boyle and coming across Patrolman Boyle Tate told the officer that Ford had taken $20 from him. He said he had a couple of dollars and produced the money, but the officer upon searching Ford found that he had taken the $20 of his cap. Ford offered no explanation as to how he got it.

In court he denied that he had taken the money from the officer, but Tate denied this. The court found Ford guilty and sentenced him to two months in the house of correction.

Obstructing the Sidewalk

Joseph P. Masterson, Walter Murray and Harry Lowney were charged with obstructing the sidewalk in the vicinity of Housford square on July 31. Patrolman P. Sullivan and O'Keefe testified that the defendants were three of a crowd of young men who were at the time standing on the sidewalk and obstructing the sidewalk. Sullivan said that he had previously warned all three that they would be liable to arrest if they continued to block the sidewalk. Dr. J. McCarty and Miss Ellen O'Leary, mother of the Children's Home, were called. The former testified that he had complained of boys hanging around the sidewalk near his premises, but could not say whether or not the defendants were the boys he had reported. Mrs. O'Leary, however, identified the defendants, but could not say that they were obstructing the sidewalk on the night in question.

The defendants denied that they were obstructing the sidewalk.

Supt. Welch said he did not want to be severe on the boys, but wanted them to understand that they cannot block the sidewalk and suggested that the case be continued for one month in order to see if conditions will improve. Walter Murray was found guilty and discharged, while Masterson and Lowney were found guilty and sentence suspended for one month.

For Non-Support

Patrick J. Cronin was charged with failing to provide for the support of his minor children. Mrs. Cronin said her husband had not given her any money for the support of the children since last January. Cronin was found guilty and ordered to pay $5 a week towards their support.

The case of Nellie J. Kelly, charged with drunkenness, was continued until Saturday. Martin Curtin was sentenced to ten days in jail.

The department of university extension, Massachusetts board of education sends the following news letter:

These summer days are particularly busy for the department. The war has made many changes necessary for we are anxious to meet the greatest need at this time. There are at least two ways in which we are helping:

First, by giving lessons in French conversation to the fighting men. Classes are in progress in the armory and several units in the commercial program was given, including piano

FIRST CALL ON SEPTEMBER 1

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The first men accepted in the state for service in the new national army will be called to the colors on Sept. 1. Orders to this effect received today by Charles F. Gettemy, director of military recruitment, from Governor Mahan, commander of the various camps between Sept. first and fifth. Fully one-third of the state's quota, according to Director Gettemy, will be called on the first day of next month.

Brig. Gen. John C. Edwards, commander of the northeast department, announced that the cantonment at Ayer, known as Camp Devens, would be ready Sept. 1.

Second Call at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 8.—Fully 75 per cent of the men examined by the examination board in the seventh district, comprising a group of small towns in this part of the Connecticut valley have either been physically disqualified or have filed exemption claims, with the result that the board will call about 100 men for examination, it was announced today.

Soldiers Go After Slackers

MALDEN, Aug. 8.—Judge Charles Bruce, chairman of one of the draft examination boards in this city, adopted energetic methods today to compel the appearance of eight men who had failed to respond to the call for physical examination. Under his orders a detachment of soldiers, accompanied by a patrolman, set out in an automobile with instructions to bring the men in. They located the men and brought them before the board.

Wife Blocks Exemption

WORCESTER, Aug. 8.—During the examination of registrants for the draft army yesterday in the 1st Worcester district the telephone bell rang and Sec. George N. Jeppson of the board answered.

"Is this the exemption board of district 12?" asked a female voice.

"It is," responded Mr. Jeppson.

"Well, you are to examine Mr. Blank today. He is my husband. If he asks for exemption, don't pay any attention to him. He never has supported me or given me anything."

Blank asked for exemption, but the board will have another talk with his wife.

CAPTURE OF LENS INTRUSTED TO CANADIANS

An idea of how great the British confidence in Canada's troops is may be gained from the information that the Dominion's men were entrusted with the attack on Lens, the very important French coal city. The possession of Lens means much, for it is the center of a coal district from which the Germans have been extracting much fuel.

No. 1 shows Canadian soldiers cheering the return of a British tank from its first action; No. 2, General Arthur Currie, now commanding the Canadian forces in France. He recently succeeded General Byng; No. 3, King George's recent visit to the Canadian trenches. He is shown here looking over the graves of Canadians who fell at Vimy Ridge.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC SOCIETIES

KANSAS CITY, Miss., August 8.—Monsignor John Bonzano, apostolic delegate to the United States, seven or more archbishops, thirty bishops and several thousand priests and laymen, it is expected, will attend the sixteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic societies, which will be held here August 25-29. This year's convention, it is declared, will be one of the most important in the history of the organization as it is expected that action will be taken upon the so-called "diocesan plan."

under which it is proposed to affiliate all Catholic bodies in the country with the American federation. There are 110 dioceses in the country and if the plan is put into effect the federation officials say its membership will be increased from 3,000,000 to about 18,000,000.

The plan was proposed at the convention last year, and it was decided to take action at this year's meeting.

The movement was endorsed at a conference of the American archbishops in Washington some time ago. The American federation is the largest Catholic body in the country, and a number of large organizations already are affiliated with it. The diocesan plan would bring all of the smaller societies into affiliation.

How the Roman Catholics of America may help with the war also will be discussed at the convention. Prelates from all parts of the country will be here. Among them, in addition to Monsignor Bonzano, will be: Archbishop Mundelein, Chicago; Glennon, St. Louis; Hanna, San Francisco; Hart, New Orleans; Moeller, Cincinnati; Christie, Portland, and Messner, Milwaukee.

An elaborate program for the entertainment of the visitors has been arranged by the members of the local branch of the federation. The convention will open Sunday morning, August 26, with a pontifical high mass with Monsignor Bonzano as celebrant. The sermon will be delivered by Archbishop Glennon. In the evening there will be a mass meeting in convention hall over which Archbishop Glennon will preside. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Bishop Thomas F. Lillis of Kansas City; Mayor George Edwards, Kansas City; and John Whalen, New York, president of the federation. The principal addresses will be by Monsignor Bonzano and Judge Martin J. Wade, Iowa City, Iowa.

Monday, August 27, will be devoted entirely to business sessions, with a "Catholic Day" celebration at a local park in the evening. Tuesday morning a pontifical high mass will be said at the cathedral for Archbishop Glennon, New Orleans; Bishop James A. McFaul, Trenton, N. J.; and the deceased members of the federation. In the evening a meeting under the auspices of the social service commission of the federation will be held. Bishop F. J. Muldoon, of Rockford, Ill., will preside. The closing business session is set for Wednesday morning. In the afternoon the visitors will be taken for a trip about the city.

Many social affairs are being planned for the visiting women by the women of Kansas City.

PERSHING WANTS THINKING MEN

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Maj. Gen. Pershing, commander of the American expedition in France, told the Associated Press yesterday it was highly essential that the men in America's conscript army should be in excellent physical condition, well disciplined and capable of individual action. He added that the army organization must be built from the bottom up, each man and officer devoting all his energies to the work. The general said:

"Our men must be in good physical condition, keeping their minds clear and thereby capable of meeting the trying conditions of modern warfare. The men must learn to obey orders promptly implicitly and willingly, but not necessarily automatically."

Object to the word automatic, because we do not want a machine-made organization. But an army of thinking men—men with individuality, men fully capable and ready to assume command of units, should their officers be killed or incapacitated, as sometimes happens in trench warfare.

Gen. Pershing likened army organization to a football team in which each man is trained to physical perfection under strict discipline, but is capable of brilliant individual action in a crisis. The general added: "We want our men trained the same way."

The general was optimistic and confident that America's army would give an excellent account of itself. He would come up to the expectation of the entire allies.

It was announced at the American aviation service yesterday that American aviators had been picked to enter British, French and Italian aviation schools in order to complete their training at the earliest possible moment.

The problem of sending the most efficient aviators has been solved in part by the purchase of all available materials from the Ontario allies, thus permitting the Americans to begin their aerial operations much sooner than otherwise would be the case.

The service has been divided into purchasing and operating divisions.

Officers in the American service emphasize their belief that nothing should interfere with the aviation plans in the United States. The officers say that where one man is needed in the reserve for each man in the

POWDERLESS GUN NATION'S LATEST DEADLY WEAPON

Here's the latest contribution of American inventors: rapier to warfare. Quiet tests of a powderless gun which may revolutionize land attacks and defense have been going on at the Washington navy yard. The gun is revolved at great speed by an electric motor, and is capable of firing hundreds of shots a minute.

The bullets are carried in small cups, which hold them until the gun reaches the proper position for their discharge individually by centrifugal force. The gun is accurate at five miles, is cheap to operate, and, above all, it is noiseless.

Congressman Dill of Washington has introduced an appropriation of $50,000 for the tests.

HAS HOOVER REACHED THESE?

Go into the country next Sunday, with two or three expensive hotels maintained for the auto trade on your list, and see what you will discover. There will be a long line of automobiles outside, and from a score to a hundred people within. At many of these wayside inns, especially at points fairly remote from the cities, prices are exorbitant. Even such drinks as lemonade retail as high as 40 cents an order. Yet the crowd is there week after week, buying necessities, but luxuries.

At first sight one might assume that these are the very rich, who can afford to spend their money recklessly. But the very rich own their own country places, and go to a country club when they are dining out. No, these are the people who are living beyond their means. They don't yet know that we are really in the war, that taxes will be much higher in the fall, that the cost of running a home next winter may try the patience of men with moderate incomes.

Mr. Hoover will not have succeeded in his mission of conservation until he reaches these people. They are setting a pace that other foolish people are trying to follow, and disaster awaits them somewhere on the road ahead. They have not begun to practice self denial; they are not making their fair contribution to the success of the war.

It is to the women that Mr. Hoover especially appeals. Singularly enough the women in these automobiles outnumber the men. Are the men dragging them into extravagance, or are they pushing the men in ahead of them, to satisfy their craving for a good time? There is food for serious reflection here.

LIQUOR MEN DISTURBED

Certain liquor dealers in the city are said to be disturbed over the activities of the new liquor squad. Why should they be? While their licenses have cost them a round sum of money, they made the purchase with a full knowledge of the provisions. They are not permitted to sell liquor at all times or to sell to all persons. There are numerous limitations, and the laws of the state require them, for the better protection of the public.

A liquor inspector cannot molest a dealer who is living up to the provisions of his license. He can, however, reach the man whose sole purpose is to make all the money that the business will stand, regardless of its limitations. Liquor dealers must not be blind to the fact that Lowell is so near to Ayer that much will be required of it when the military cantonment is opened there. If we do not keep our streets clean the state or the nation will require us to do so. If we do not curtail drunkenness to its minimum, we must expect prohibition to blot out the whole business. No aid is to be expected from the drunkard himself, because he is suffering from a disease that has him in its clutch. There remains only the man who sells the liquor. If he wants to remain in the business, he must measure up to whatever requirements the law imposes.

Before the winter is over American families may be asked to give up meat and wheat one day or more a week, as has been required in Europe. Nobody has yet suggested that the drinker give up his liquor one day in seven. He has not even been told to go without it on the Sabbath. But he ought to be willing at least to curtail within reason.

THE UNIVERSAL TOPIC

A woman reader of The Sun expresses the hope that some day the newspapers will cease devoting so much of their space to the war. The desire is sufficiently limitless to be realized in time. Yet what topic, not entirely trivial, touches the daily life of so many people? The man with a family thinks of the war whenever he buys meat, flour or shoes. The merchant comes back to it as often as he faces increased freight and shipping charges. In distant China and Africa men of another race and color have learned that because of the war cotton cloth comes less frequently and costs more. Even in the islands of half known seas remote people without newspapers know that the world is at war, and that it reacts upon them.

The war is the one thing that we cannot escape in the routine of our daily lives. It even imposes upon us an obligation to know more of the world than we had been taught in the listless days of our youth. For one cannot dismiss it with the banal remark: "I don't pretend to know anything about the places where the battles are fought. I just pay no attention to them." One ought to know. The free library in Lowell contains hundreds of books that have been added since the war began. Education in such matters requires neither college nor tutor, but an intelligent reading of the war publications so abundantly offered.

Do not try to get away from the topic of the war, because it is not possible to do so. Train yourself rather, to discuss its many sides intelligently.

WOMEN IN THE FIELDS

The Taunton Gazette notes that it was not so long ago that women working in the fields were regarded

curiously. The place of woman was supposed to be in the flower garden; unless she happened to be the wife of an alien, when it was understood that she was helping the family maintain itself, or that she came from a land where she was little better than a beast of burden.

But the war has brought us to our senses. Native born women are not only doing their share of the lighter work in the fields, but they are deriving from it the physical benefit that men have enjoyed. One of the tragedies of the New England farm has been the overworking of the woman in the house, and the better care of the husband and sons in the field. When woman shares outdoor work she gains its respite as well as its burdens. At the end of the week she is probably in better condition physically than though she had spent all her time within doors on the vexing cares of the household.

The end of the war, whenever it comes, will give women the right to return to their flower gardens if they choose. The shortage of food in the world will no longer put the obligation of service upon them. But if they are wise they will retain the honorable right to share in the outside work as much as they may desire. The world will not criticize them hereafter. It will have ceased to define a lady as a woman who never soils her hands with toil.

A SILLY ALARM

A socialist addressing an audience of some size on Jackson street on Monday night, warned all workingmen within his hearing that laborers were about to be imported into the United States from Porto Rico. He intimated that they were being brought in by the capitalists to take jobs away from American workmen.

This is silly talk. In the first place, the Porto Rican is himself an American citizen. In the second, there is such a scarcity of labor in the country at the present time that nobody is in danger of losing his job, except through open disloyalty to the United States. In less than a month half a million young men are to be taken from the industries of the country to enter the army. The few thousand men and women who may come over from Porto Rico to work will supply only an insignificant part of the readjustment that will be necessary in our industries.

The north has been so short of workers for a year that negroes have been coming by the thousand from the south, which now feels the shortage there. The west is begging for laborers to save the harvest. The railroads need men. Monition plants are to further expand within the next six months.

Both England and France have been forced to import labor in order to keep their industries and their agriculture up to requirements. This country will do well to anticipate the need and provide for it. But alarm over the coming here of colonial citizens is silly and quite unwarranted.

Didn't Think Quick Enough

Before introducing Lieut. de Tesson, aid to Gen. Joffre, and Col. Fabry, the "Blue Devil of France," Chairman Spencer of the St. Louis entertainment committee, at the M.A.A. breakfast, told this anecdote:

"In Washington Lieut. de Tesson was approached by a pretty American girl, who said:

"And did you kill a German soldier?"

"Yes," he replied.

"With what hand did you do it?" she inquired.

"With the right hand," he said.

"And then the pretty American girl seized his right hand and kissed it. Col. Fabry stood near by. He stroked over and said to Lieut. de Tesson:

Giving Life for Peace

While the difficulties in the way of re-establishing peace between the contending nations of Europe are in mind, it might be helpful to consider the manner in which two Alaskan tribes, the Stikkeen and Sitka, once settled such a matter. The late John Mink narrates the facts. The bloody feud had lasted all summer, for the parties were evenly matched, and they were all likely to starve in the winter because the women dared not go out to fish or pick berries. But one day a Stikkeen chief appeared between the camps and called for a parley. He said:

"My people are hungry. They dare not go to the salmon streams or berry fields for winter supplies, and, if this war goes on much longer, most of my people will die of hunger. Let us have peace. You brave Sitka warriors go home, and we will go home, and we will all set out to dry salmon and berries before it is too late."

The Sitka chief replied:

"You may well say let us stop fighting when you have had the best of it. You have killed ten more of my tribe than we have killed of yours. Give us the Stikkeen man to balance our blood account; then, and not till then, will we make peace and go home."

"Very well," replied the Stikkeen chief, "you know my rank. You know

RULES FOR THE DRAFT ARMY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder and his assistants are at work on the final regulations to be promulgated this week to complete organization of the selective draft war army. They will govern actual mobilization of the men selected.

Statements issued yesterday by the war department show that preliminary figures place the total force of National Guard taken into the federal service Aug. 6 at 14,000 officers and 118,834 men. Another statement showed that 140,700 war volunteers have been recruited for the regular service since April 1, leaving only about 2000 vacancies in the regulars at war strength.

These figures mean that approximately 725,000 men are now under arms, exclusive of the navy and marine corps, to be supplemented within a few weeks by 537,000 raised under the selective draft bill. Of the latter number about 500,000 will compose the third great element of the war army, the national army, and the rest will go to fill up the regulars and the guard and their reserves.

To Assign Drafted Men

The mobilization regulations will show how the drafted men are to be assigned. The war department has received countless applications from men certain to be called in the first increment of the draft forces for assignment to some particular arm or branch of the service.

Where a man has been summoned by his local board for physical examination no method exists whereby he may enlist in the regulars and have his service count on the home quota. It is probable, however, that some effort will be made to meet the wishes of the drafted men in this regard, as far as possible, when they are mobilized. It can only be done to a limited extent, as the regulars and guard, as shown by yesterday's statement, are practically full now.

The war department has taken over recruiting for the national guard as well as the regulars, the entire guard having now become a part of the army of the United States and having no connection with the states.

Yesterday's statement says that about half the men applying for enlistment are within the draft ages. Those accepted will count as credits on subsequent quotas of their districts. The statement puts stress, however, on the fact that the country wants all the men it can get who can be spared at home.

The National Guard statement shows that only the number of men short of the 118,834 figure, shown by checking of the muster rolls by department commanders and the rejection of any found unfit, will be taken from the draft forces for the guard service.

The recruiting service expects to fill the regular army to full war strength tomorrow or next day, so that there probably will be a surplus of 150,000 or more men when the full 637,000 of the first increment of the national army is assembled.

In addition, recruiting throughout the country will supplement the excess, all men who volunteer going into the regulars or the National Guard or into the reserve after full war strength is reached.

Ranks to Be Kept Full

It is regarded as likely that the mobilization regulations, soon to be issued, will show that the surplus of drafted men is to be used as a recruit reservoir and that all the men will be under training as quickly as possible. A recruit depot will be established in France from which regiments at the front will be kept filled up as men from the main recruit depot in this country being sent over to this distribution center as needed.

In the same way, sick or wounded men will be returned to the front, when recovered and a steady flow of recruits to maintain active regiments at the top fighting efficiency will be provided.

The only hint of the probable method of mobilization of drafted men lies in a recent ruling by Gen. Crowder, which shows that the adjutant general may summon the quotas of the districts in increments. Division of each quota into five equal parts is suggested, each part to be called up separately, as needed.

Under this arrangement it would be possible to call out at once the men to form the new national army, and to summon later those who are to comprise the reserve for all elements of the army. Men temporarily needed in harvest fields or elsewhere could be classified by local boards into these later increments to meet emergency needs containing information obtained both the enemy's lines and that this method might be adopted to some extent by American aviators.

GLIDDEN APPEALS TO OWNERS OF CARRIER PIGEONS TO SEND NAMES TO QUARTERS

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—An appeal to owners of carrier pigeons to send their names to the headquarters of the aviation section of the signal officers' corps was made today by Lieut. Charles J. It was explained that carrier pigeons were being used by the army in the war for sending back messages containing information obtained both the enemy's lines and that this method might be adopted to some extent by American aviators.

POLICY FOR MAKING WAR PURCHASES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The war industries board continued its sessions today and was expected to announce a definite policy for making war purchases. The program will deal mainly with priority of manufacture and shipment of goods, it is believed.

The administration intends that the allies shall share with this government in reduced costs for supplies and if negotiations with producers fail to obtain the desired results the government will go into the open market and will buy for them. The realization, however, that heavy government purchases will cause prices to soar with a consequent hardship on private consumers is causing some concern.

In Over Million Homes They Know.

Plant Juice Being Introduced Here, Is Fast Becoming a National Remedy

Speaking of a group of prominent citizens, The Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at Dows, The Druggist, in Merrimack square, said:

MRS. MINNIE CHARD.

"It is now an accepted fact that 90 per cent. of all sickness can be traced directly to a deranged stomach, and I can safely assert that in all of my experience I have never seen of a formula that has as rapid and permanent an action on such ailments as stomach, liver and kidney trouble, as Plant Juice has. This preparation will soon become a national remedy, and the people in Lowell, like other cities, where Plant Juice has been introduced, are giving me signed statements in regard to the benefit they have received.

Mrs. Minnie Chard, of No. 51 Brookings street, Lowell, recently stated:

"I have been bothered for the past three months with a very severe attack of rheumatism in my limbs, and my stomach was also in a very weak condition, so that I could not keep any solid food on it; I could not sleep at night, had headaches, was nervous and dizzy. I was told that I had nervous indigestion and had tried all kinds of medicine and was under treatment for years but never got any permanent relief, until I started to take your Plant Juice. The result is more than satisfactory and the rheumatic pains are about gone; I sleep well and am able to eat anything I want without the least distress. I am glad to give this public endorsement for Plant Juice."

"The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggist's, in Merrimack square, Lowell, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy."

FAKE ASSASSINS IN RUSSIA

PETROGRAD, June 20. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Among the novelties which Russia's revolution has presented to the world is the profession of fake assassins. In other countries only persons suffering from hallucinations claim to have committed murders of which they are innocent. Here, as a result of Nicholas' overthrow, posing as an assassin is a highly profitable, if transitory, branch of business.

Terrorists released from Siberian convict jails and exiled villages are, naturally, made heroes. They are given free train accommodation, free dinners, free clothing and gifts of money. When they return to their native towns they are acclaimed as martyrs of liberty and they receive proposals of marriage from attractive and wealthy young women. As a result of this novel condition, many enterprising citizens whose hands are innocent of anything grimmer than mud or ink are posing as murderers of despotic officials. Women as well as men are entering the profession. Catherine Smirnov, who has been arrested in Moscow, announced that she had murdered Alexander, governor of Odessa, and described with pathetic her sufferings in the Arctic wastes of Yakutsk. Smirnov levied tribute and was presented with bouquets. An unkindly inquirer discovered that Odessa never had a governor named Yakutsk and that Catherine Smirnov had posed in Odessa as a Sister of Mercy and after swindling 70 charitable citizens had been expelled by the military authorities.

In the same city a healthy young man who described himself as a soldier volunteer arrested in the street the invalid ex-governor, Gen. Pillu. Before a sympathizing crowd he denounced the general. "I am the innocent and unhappy man whom you seized," he exclaimed, "the peaceful citizen whom you sent to a convict prison without trial. Our committee has ordered you to be sent to the front but in view of your bad health we shall show some mercy." In vain Gen. Pillu explained that he had never or seldom an innocent man. He was hauled by the mob to the militia office. The accuser meantime collected money and fled.

Save the children, save yourself. A single bottle of Dows' Diarrhoea and Cholera syrup will do it if taken in time.

COLORED TROOPS NOT TO GO SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—In connection with the mobilization of troops, the war department yesterday announced that colored troops will not be ordered to southern camps at this time. This applies principally to the colored National Guard.

The colored troops will be left as a home guard for defense for their native states. They have been mustered into the federal service the same as the militia organizations.

The 9th Infantry, which is now camped at Ayer, is the only regiment in Massachusetts that has a colored company.

The company is considered one of the best in the state. Its officers are all colored and is every man in the company, and they have proved themselves good soldiers.

When the call came for troops and the National Guard was called out, there was some talk of organizing a battalion of colored men in Boston and using Co. L of this city as a nucleus of the organization.

Last year, when the call came for troops on the Mexican border, the 9th Infantry was left out, and at that time many were of the opinion that the colored company was the cause of the regiment not being sent.

The above order was no surprise to the officers of the regiment, as the matter has been talked over for several days. Col. Sweetser has known about the matter, and it is said he has been assured that the colored company would not deter the regiment being sent south when the time came for the movement.

It was thought at headquarters of the regiment last night that this matter was possibly the reason. Col. Sweetser was called in by Gen. Clarence R. Edwards for an interview.

Col. Sweetser could not be reached last night at his home, he not having returned from Boston.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—John Verplanck Newlin of Whitford, Pa., an American field service member who was seriously wounded by a shell at his post on Aug. 3, died in a hospital at the front on Aug. 5. Newlin was a Princeton student and was the second man from that university killed in field service within the past week.

The same shell which struck Newlin wounded Julian Broome Alan of New York, the section's leader.

UNIFORM REGULATION OF PRICE OF COAL

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Practically all of the governors of 16 states from Pennsylvania to Kansas had responded favorably today to an invitation extended yesterday by the Illinois council of defense, to attend a conference in Chicago on Aug. 16, for the purpose of bringing about a uniform regulation of the price of coal.

While the state council of defense recommended to Gov. Lowden seizure of the coal mines in Illinois for the period of the war as a means of reducing prices, the hope was expressed that the states of the central west will join in urging congress to enact a law that will confer full powers of control over coal prices and distribution in an administrative body of the federal government which would have machinery to give instant relief.

STENOGRAPHER IN WAR DEPARTMENT

Notice has just been received of the appointment of Raymond Conway of 15 Windsor street as a stenographer in the war department. Mr. Conway will leave Lowell Sunday for Washington.

RANGERS RUSH TO QUELL APACHE UPRISING

GLOBE, Ariz., Aug. 8.—A force of mounted rangers led by Deputy Sheriff Dan Armer was expected to reach the scene today of the Apache Indian uprising in the Sierra Anchas mountains, 60 miles northwest of here, where nine white men, employees of the asbestos mines in that region, were reported to be surrounded by a mob of more than 100 striking Indian and Mexican miners. A forest fire set by the Indians was sweeping the mountains.

Other forces of cowboys and forest rangers are hurrying to the imperiled white men from the Tomba and from Roosevelt, while still others went by automobile to Rice, where they expected to obtain horses for the ride to the mines.

First news of the trouble which began yesterday when the Indians and Mexicans employed in the asbestos mines went on strike for higher pay was received last night in a telephone message from a forest ranger, who had ridden 25 miles to give the alarm.

Another telephone message said the nine white men in the camp had been driven into a dugout on the mountain side and were surrounded by the Indians and Mexicans. The men in the dugout were said to be supplied with only a few rounds of ammunition and a small quantity of provisions.

Because of the lack of communication, all messages having to be carried 25 miles to a telephone, details of the uprising are not yet known but reports indicated that the companies of the Industrial Workers of the World—one a Mexican who spoke Apache, had been working among the men for the last week and had instigated the strike.

FIND YOUNG DE SAULLES FUNERAL OF FATHER

MINNEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—All mystery about John Longer de Saulles, Jr., the four and a half year old son of Mrs. Bianca de Saulles, who shot and killed her divorced husband last Friday when he refused to give up the child to her care, was cleared today when he was found in the care of G. Maurice Heckscher, de Saulles' business partner. Counsel for Mrs. de Saulles was expected to make an appeal to Mr. Heckscher today that the child be returned to her care.

Mrs. de Saulles has been removed from the jail and is being held in the building on the recommendation of Dr. Gray F. Cleghorn, the county physician.

The funeral services for de Saulles were held today.

WOMAN TERRIBLY CUT BY GLASS FLOORING

HAVERHILL, Aug. 8.—Falling through glass sections of three floors in the Simonds building last yesterday afternoon, Miss Anne Kelley, aged 30, stenographer and clerk for Poor & Abbott, received so many dangerous cuts about her head, body and limbs that surgeons at the Hale hospital, whether she was taken, say it will be several days before they can tell positively whether she will recover.

In the corridor on each of the fifth, fourth and third floors of the building is a section about 10 by 4 feet of glass flooring, the glass being about an inch thick and the three sections serving as a light well. Miss Kelley was walking across this space on the fifth floor, where her employers' offices are, and either slipped or fell or the glass broke with her weight. She fell through all three of the glass sections to the second floor, a distance of about 35 feet, smashing the glass to bits as she went and receiving innumerable cuts all over her body. A large, heavy settee, one end of which rested on the light well of the fourth floor, went crashing after as she fell, landed on her back when she struck the second floor and was smashed to pieces by the impact.

The noise of Miss Kelley's fall attracted tenants of the building. They called an ambulance and the young woman was hurried to the hospital. When she recovered sufficiently to talk, Miss Kelley, notwithstanding her own serious condition, expressed the greatest anxiety lest her mother, who is an invalid, should hear of it and she asked that her mother be kept in ignorance of the accident.

The doctors found that the glass had severed two arteries in the young woman's head.

WE WILL SELL AT

PUBLIC AUCTION

On the premises, the following described real estate, situated in Billerica, a short distance northerly from Bennett Hall railway station, E. & M. R. R. on the westerly side of the road leading from Lowell to Boston, at Brown's corner. Electric railroad right there, within the town water district, and a very desirable neighborhood.

Consisting of a tract of land containing 21 acres of tillage and woodland. Extending from the main highway to the Concord river. 717 feet on said highway and more than 1800 on the river bank, where camp sites are very desirable on account of the fine sandy beach, well adapted for bathing purposes, surrounded by attractive, shady groves. Bordering on the river are the following buildings:

Cottage of seven rooms ready for plastering, another building, 25 ft. x 35 ft., collars under both. This last building can be converted into a bungalow, ice house, poultry house. Large shady trees in front of this camp. If lots bordering on the river were placed on the market they would find ready purchase. On the opposite side of the river are more than 20 camps now occupied. There is quite an apple orchard on the place and stately elms embellish the front on the highways.

Now then, real estate in this locality, between Lowell and Boston, for sale has become scarce and seldom on the market, and becoming more so. A most desirable piece of real estate when taking into account the opportunity to farm profitably, to use for recreation as a summer home, or for improvements. Steam cars, electric railroads and water at your door at the front, and splendid location on old Concord river at the rear, where for many miles boating may be enjoyed, make this place attractive.

Look the property over, attend the sale and secure a choice piece of real estate at auction.

Terms: Three hundred dollars ($300) to be paid to the auctioneer when property is struck off. Other terms made known at the time and place of sale.

HEROIC BURGOMASTER OF BRUSSELS IS PRESIDENT OF BAR ASSOCIATION

HAVRE, Aug. 8.—Lawyers of Brussels have, unanimously elected Adolphe Max, the heroic burgomaster of Brussels, imprisoned by Germans, as president of the bar association, according to news received here. The announcement of the election was received with rousing cheers regardless of the fact that German sentries were posted at the palace of justice where the election took place.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Central News agency quotes the newspaper Belgisch Dagblad to the effect that Burgomaster Max of Brussels is seriously ill in prison at Celle, a Prussian town 23 miles northeast of Hannover. King Alfonso of Spain is said to have intervened fruitlessly in behalf of the imprisoned burgomaster.

U. S. Government Indian Land Sale

The GREAT NEW STATE OF OKLAHOMA rolls in liquid wealth. Thousands made rich. Oil hits tops at $170 a barrel. State produced 157,000,000 barrels last year. Throughout the oil fields are wonderful examples of fame and fortune gained at the rush of oil. Dan Tucker, 10-year-old boy, gets $150 daily royalty. Sarah Rector, colored child, receives $63,000 monthly. Henry Page, formerly railroad brakeman, gets $100,000 monthly from oil leases. Roy Johnson, a Michigan printer, cleared $200,000 on a $200 investment. Cole McGee, Oklahoma carpenter, made $33,000 on a $175 investment. M. Musselman, Syrian rug peddler, made more than $5,000,000 in four years on a $362 investment. Harry Sinclair, drug clerk, made $12,000,000 in three years in Oklahoma oil. Hundreds of others, purchasers of cheap Indian lands and heirs to Indian land allotments, have reaped huge fortunes from oil royalties.

OIL OIL OIL

The Private Oklahoma Indian Land Car now in Lowell, has been sent here for the purpose of advertising the opening of a half million acres of Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian lands, located in southeastern Oklahoma, which are now to be sold by the U. S. Government—on easy annual payments. ALL THE OKLAHOMA OIL BELT FOR THE INVESTOR AND SPECULATOR AS WELL AS THE HOME-SEEKER.

Opportunity warns, but it will not wait. You must act. Right now you have an opportunity that will not come again.

This is the chance of a lifetime, as the Government does not require you to live on these lands or improve them, and they can be bought direct from the U. S. Government at a few dollars per acre on easy payments. Irrigation not necessary. Forty-five inches of rainfall, agricultural, grazing and timber lands, close to railroads, and prosperous growing towns.

The Oklahoma Indian Land Car contains an extensive display of Oklahoma products, both agricultural and mineral, as well as numerous photographic views of western development. For those interested in the Indian lands we have maps, charts, blue prints, etc., and skilled demonstrators are on hand at all times to acquaint the public with the terms and conditions.

DON'T FORGET

The population of the United States doubles every thirty years, but there never will be any more land than there is today. Think it over. Open daily and Sunday, 9 to 12 M., 1 to 5:30 P. M., and 7 to 9 P. M.

MEETING OF PARK COMMISSION

The members of the park commission held a meeting at city hall last evening and in the course of the evening the plans for the closing season of the playground season were outlined and put in shape. It was voted to charge $5 for the privilege of vending foodstuffs on the commons for the remainder of the season, and four tree petitions were read and referred to the free committee.

The meeting was called to order at 7:40 o'clock by Chairman McKay with all members present with the exception of Mr. Wood. Philipp Vincent asked that a tree in Spaulding street be removed because of the fact that the tree was throwing too much shade on his house and also that two of its large limbs were dead and dangerous. Victor C. Salois, in a communication to the board, stated that a large tree at 175 Cross street is obstructing the sidewalk and part of it is resting on the roof of his building. A petition from John H. Harrington asking that two trees at 2 Park street be removed, was read. Fannie H. Murphy asked that a tree at 42 Twelfth street be removed. The tree roots are growing into the sewer pipe and clogging the sewer with the result that her cellar is being flooded. The four petitions were referred to the free committee. William Ralston and David Harrington asked permission to sell frankfurts on the commons Saturday afternoon. They stated they have been conducting a business on the commons for the past three years and were never interfered with until a couple of weeks ago when they were ordered away by an officer. After discussing the matter the board voted to ask a fee of $5 for the remainder of the season.

The development of the winding pool on the South common was considered at length and it was decided to adopt final plans at a meeting of the board to be held next Monday afternoon. The plans for the closing season of the playground season were then taken up and it was decided to hold the event Thursday afternoon, Aug. 30. A pageant representing the important persons and events in Lowell's history will be staged by 2000 children under the personal direction of Mrs. Julian B. Keyes. In the evening general dancing will be conducted on the green for adults. Further details of the pageant will be given at a later date.

The monthly financial report of the superintendent was presented and accepted. The report showed that during the month of July the sum of $1,475.71 was spent for labor, while bills amounting to $117.83 were paid during the month. On Aug. 7 there remained a balance from the park appropriation of $475.71. The balance for the sundry expenses appropriation on Aug. 7 was $2587.03.

PUBLIC MARKET BIG SUCCESS

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 8.—More than 3000 women attended the opening of the new municipal market on the tract at Broadway and Vernon street yesterday, started by the city council and financed by the city of Springfield.

It is fashioned after the old world idea and is a producer-to-consumer experiment. Twenty-five loads of vegetables from the farms were all sold in about one hour and the farmers were on their way home with their pockets filled with money, ready to perform eight or ten hours' labor in the fields.

Lester I. Dygert, chairman of the Central Labor union food conservation committee, was present to observe the progress of the buying and study the crowds. He stated that fully 70 per cent of the patrons were from the laboring classes. He said there were twice as many patrons as could be supplied.

So many were obliged to go without vegetables that a committee was organized to go among the consumers and urge them to come again Thursday, when more produce was promised. The consensus of opinion was, however, that the opening day demonstrated the success of the venture beyond the expectation of the municipal committee.

Prices were much lower than the produce could be bought for in the retail stores. One farmer sold a load of new potatoes for $1 a bushel, the lowest figure at which potatoes have been sold at in Springfield for more than a year.

With green corn selling for 50 cents a dozen in the stores, one farmer disposed of a load of 2500 ears at 10 cents a dozen. He said that at that price he was making money over selling the corn to a wholesaler. If the market continues to prove the success Thursday and Saturday that it was yesterday the committee will consider keeping it open daily, beginning next week.

Little, an organizer and leader of the organization.

DEFINES DUTY OF GUARDS AND CONSTABULARY

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—At a meeting yesterday of the staff officers of the State Guard at the state house Brig. Gen. Butler Ames announced that the state has agreed to furnish colors for the State Guard troops. He also exhibited for inspection the new brassard which will be worn by members of the guard. The general explained that the State Guard and the local constabulary organization differ widely in their purpose and authority. He pointed out that the State Guard assumed the duties of the National Guard now in the federal service taking all its powers and being responsible to the governor, whereas the local constabulary organizations have no more power than in times of peace and can be personally responsible for their acts except when the persons apprehended are actually committing crimes.

In explanation Gen. Ames said: "Members of local constabulary, no matter how sure they are that a person or persons intend committing a crime, have no legal right to apprehend them until they actually are committing the crime. For instance, they may see two men carrying a load of dynamite, sure in their own minds that some evil purpose is intended. Yet the constabulary have no right to interfere against the abutment of a bridge and attach a fuse to it, but it is not until they light the fuse that the constabulary can interfere legally, and I am inclined to think that would be a bit too late."

DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT IN GERMANY SLIPPING

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 7.—The democratic movement in Germany which reformers were sure was getting such a splendid start in the recent reichstag crisis seems now to be slipping down grade backwards. The liberal and radical newspapers in Germany generally interpret the selection by Dr. Michaelis, the chancellor of his colleagues as a distinct rejection of the principle of parliamentarism or parliamentary influence upon the administration.

The socialist organ Vorwaerts announces that the cabinet members, Spahn, Krauss and Mueller enter the government as individuals, not as party representatives. Therefore the party assumes no responsibility therefore, but remains completely a free hand toward the government. Herr Mueller particularly has long had no active connection with the socialist party and has a purely administrative administrative non-political post.

Vorwaerts declares that the present government must be the last of its kind and must be replaced by a government of the people. Dr. Michaelis also is getting further away from the reichstag peace resolution, even as he interprets it, as the day passes. The phrase in his speech "full peace" was printed in black-face type.

Reports to the Associated Press from Germany say that Dr. Michaelis row has been lashed by the advocates of greater Germany as a new Bismarck. An enthusiastic orator of a delegation from an independent committee for German peace that saw Dr. Michaelis off at the railway station yesterday made a speech which was wildly applauded, greeting him as a worthy successor of the old blood and iron chancellor. Dr. Michaelis, according to the published reply to the speech, was modestly silent regarding it.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8.—Austro-Hungarian newspapers according to a telegram from Vienna, view China's declaration of war as the work of the entente, especially President Wilson. It is, these papers assert, aimed at German and Austro-Hungarian business interests in China to oust troublesome trade competitors by furnishing the Chinese a pretext for not paying their debts and rescind railway and mining concessions granted to Austrians and Germans, to confiscate Austro-German capital invested in the country, seize their ships and intern their subjects.

POSTPONE THE ALLIED LABOR CONFERENCE

According to a despatch from Madrid published by the Standard, it has been arranged that a Spanish naval officer will go aboard every hospital ship to guarantee that the ship is used only for the transport of sick and wounded.

RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT HOLDS MEETING

PETROGRAD, Aug. 7.—The first meeting of the new government was held today. Premier Kerensky, who presided said the cabinet must concentrate all its attention on national defense and organization of the country, principally in connection with financial and economic affairs. He appealed to the members of the cabinet to redouble their efforts toward organizing and consolidating the government.

Foreign Minister Terestchenko who left later for general headquarters accompanied by M. Diamant, the Russian minister, said the government had decided to abolish the post of procurator general of the Holy Synod and create a ministry of public worship.

BLAME WILSON FOR CHINA INCREASE PRICE OF ALL ONE CENT PAPERS

PARIS, Aug. 7.—An inter-ministerial press committee which consists of delegates representing the Parliament and Provincial press and the ministers of commerce and interior has decided that one cent papers shall increase the price to two cents on Aug. 15, when they will be permitted to appear as four page papers five times weekly instead of twice as at present.

The committee's decisions have no legal force, but depend upon the willingness of the newspapers to observe them. Several papers question the possibility of solving the paper crisis on such lines.

The price of paper before the war was 27 francs, now it is 105 francs. A special importation from Scandinavia is advocated, especially as it is no longer possible to count on America which during the war years has more important freight to send.

U. S. ARMY ON EUROPEAN BASIS

Reorganization Ordered—Infantry Division Reduced to 19,000 Men

Corps Revived—Larger Proportion of Artillery and Machine Guns

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A reorganization of American army units, under which the division totalling 28,000 found unwieldy for service on European battlefields, is abandoned for the continental unit of about 19,000 men, has been ordered by the war department.

Under the new plan a division will include only two infantry brigades of two regiments each, in place of three brigades of three regiments each under the old scheme.

Many other organization changes are made, including a material increase in the artillery and machine gun strength of each division. The cavalry regiment now included in each division is detached, a new trench mortar battery is added and the old army corps plan abandoned after the Civil war is again put in operation.

The 3 divisions of the National Guard as now constituted, will be reorganized in conformity with the new plan after its guardsmen are sent to training camps. No changes in camp assignments, it is presumed, will be involved. The national army will be organized from the start under this plan, so far as the regulars are concerned. It has been understood that the reorganization already has been carried out for the units now in France.

General Order Issued

The war department order was announced in a statement issued by the public information committee last night as follows:

"A general order made public by the adjutant general's office today provides for important changes in the organization of the army.

"The ratio of artillery strength to infantry is greatly increased. A division will hereafter include only four infantry regiments in two brigades, in place of the old division of three brigades, each comprising three regiments of infantry. There will still be three regiments of field artillery in each division. In addition, a trench mortar battery is attached to each division.

"The machine gun arm is also materially enlarged. A machine gun battalion of four companies has been made a unit of each division, in addition to the three machine gun companies included in each regiment.

"The American division will be made by this order to conform practically to the units utilized by the entente allies, among whom a division numbers approximately 19,000 men.

Larger Division Unwieldy

"The reason for the change is that the division as heretofore made up of about 28,000 men, is too unwieldy for the demands of trench warfare. With so large a unit, sure and swift communication with all parts is difficult. The problem to be met was basically of mobility for the peculiar needs of fighting.

"The smaller sized divisions call for the maintenance of all units at fighting strength. For this purpose reserve battalions are provided. These will consist of 612 men each and are listed in the general orders as separate training battalions. The number of these battalions has not been made public. Details of regimental organization are also withheld for military reasons.

"The new order calls for army corps and armies, units which have practically disappeared since the Civil war. Corps were organized during the Spanish war, but were not actually operated as such to any great extent.

"Each army corps will consist of three infantry division corps headquarters and certain army troops not specified. Each army will normally consist of three or more army corps, army headquarters and certain army troops not specified.

The New Infantry Division

"Under the new order each infantry division will be composed as follows: One machine gun battalion of four companies (new).

"One division headquarters (same as at present).

"One machine gun battalion of four companies (new).

"Two infantry brigades of two regiments and one machine gun battalion (four companies) each. The present division is three infantry brigades of three regiments each.

"One field artillery brigade of three regiments and one trench mortar battery (same, except trench mortar battery is new).

"One field signal battalion (same).

"One train headquarters and military police (same).

"One ammunition train (same).

"One train headquarters and military police (same).

"One supply train (same).

"One engineer train (same, except that pontoon and searchlight sections are not included in number).

"One sanitary train of four field hospital companies and four ambulance companies (same).

No Division Cavalry

"The new organization provides for no cavalry in the division. The division as presently constituted calls for one regiment of cavalry. The present division also calls for one aero squadron, while the new plan calls for none, this aircraft units being otherwise provided for.

"The order specifies 16 divisions of the national army to be organized and numbered from 1 to 16, to include all units of the army.

"Given to each of the different units in each division, it provides that the 16 divisions of the national guard now organized shall be reorganized to conform to the new plan as soon as practicable after their arrival in the training camp.

"The regular army, the National Guard and the national army will all conform to the same plan."

Body of Bradshaw Child NOT FOUND

ST. JOHNSBURY, Aug. 8.—Although continued search has failed to disclose any trace of the body of Alice Bradshaw, the eight-year-old child who is believed to have been murdered on July 5, evidence in the case will be presented to the September grand jury. It was learned last night.

County Attorney Campbell said that while the search for the body had been virtually abandoned for some weeks, the state had no intention of setting free the two women who are alleged to have confessed that they killed the girl—Mrs. Alvin Kennison and Miss Etta May Hicks.

Since their arrest following the disappearance of the child, the women have remained at the county jail here, although no formal charge has been made against them, and no hearing has been held. Both Miss Hicks, who was formerly housekeeper for John Bradshaw, Alice's father, and Mrs. Kennison, a neighbor of the Bradshaws, have refused to give any information as to what was done with the girl's body notwithstanding an alleged readiness on their part, according to the officials, to admit that the little girl was put out of the way because she was a bother. It was said last night that there was a likelihood that the women might be removed from the jail to the state prison at Windsor, partly for observation as to the mental condition.

FOUR AMERICANS LOST ON BRITISH STEAMER

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Four Americans were lost on the British steamer Belgran Prince which was sunk July 31 by a German submarine. One American is among the survivors.

The Americans who lost their lives were William Criss, of Hughes Phillips; James Shaw, Detroit; Thos. Gilmore, Merrick, Mass.; and Ben Cain, a negro, Norfolk, Va. The sole American survivor is William Snell, a negro from Jacksonville, Fla. The consul at a British port today heard from him the story of the murder of the crew.

Thirty-eight of the crew of the steamer were drowned and three others were rescued by a patrol boat on the 31st. The bodies of the three survivors were recovered by the U-boat submerged while the crew of the Belgran Prince was on the submarine's deck, most of them without lifebelts.

AYER CAMP WILL BE READY BY SEPT. 1

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, in command of the department of the northeast, after an inspection of the new army cantonment at Ayer, expressed the opinion today that the camp would be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1. He said construction work was being pushed rapidly.

LAWRENCE MILL OFFERS EMPLOYMENT TO 500 PORTO RICAN GIRLS

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Immigration Commissioner Henry J. # Help Save the Nation by Helping the Nation Save

THERE is a difference between saving and self-denial. Giving your family pure foods, keeping well-nourished bodies, maintaining normal strength and normal appetite is cheaper than paying doctor bills.

In fact, raising your table standards may be the truest form of economy. For the difference between extravagance and thrift is not a question of how much you spend, but the value received.

The housewife's problem has always been to select the best values for her money. We have simplified that problem by putting the Oval Label on our top-grade foods, definitely assuring highest quality and value. And this identi-

THE SPELLBINDER

At the last regular meeting of the municipal council bids were submitted for the construction of the addition to the Bartlett school, the total cost aggregating over $180,000, for which not a nickel had been appropriated.

Considering the excessive cost of the project, the fact that the city at that time was only about $225,000 away from its debt limit, and the additional fact that with the addition to the Bartlett school completed, accommodations could be made for the overflow at the Bartlett, Mayor O'Donnell protested against the construction of the school at this time unless the school board should say that the work must be done at once, and he offered a motion that action on the bids be postponed until the municipal council had consulted with the school board on an urgent matter.

The motion was carried unanimously, every member voting as did the mayor, and the latter supposed that no more could be heard of the school project until the council had had time to consult with the school board.

But the contractors who had been well posted against the mayor's protest, and having been told up in arms over the delay and they must have used persuasive eloquence on some of the commissioners, for Saturday last, Commissioner Warnock sent an emissary to the mayor asking him to call a special meeting of the council for the purpose of arranging for the payment of the architects' bill for work done on the plans of the Bartlett school addition.

Based on the figures submitted at the meeting, and which had not at that time been called for, the mayor declined to call the special meeting, believing that the matter could wait until the bids had been formally and legally acted upon.

Subsequently, however, the special meeting was called without the mayor's consent, and the mayor, for the payment of the architects' bill, Mayor O'Donnell did not appear at the meeting, having business elsewhere, and not having been enlightened as to just what was coming up. At the meeting, a loan order with the emergency clause was passed, authorizing a loan of $170,000 for the school house addition and the building commissioner was authorized to sign the contract.

And not a word from the school board, although the entire five voted one way or the other for a day before taking any further action. Surely those contractors must have presented a strong case, though they had not the mayor or the school board in on it. The council didn't even consult the school board after so long.

The action of the four members at yesterday's meeting brings the city's borrowing capacity down to the alarmingly low figure of $9,233.25.

The little irregularity of incurring liability before the money had been voted to meet such liability as proposed by the city, is a matter for consideration, for what is the charter among friends?

But while the commissioner of buildings is so busy with the school house addition, shouldn't he direct his attention just now to the addition to the Bartlett school and put in some fixtures and other appointments that will be needed ere the addition can be opened? School will reopen in a week or two, and it is said the fixtures are not in place in the addition. The building has been completed and all that remains is the interior work, by the building department.

Speaking of school houses, State Building Inspector MacDonnell sent to city hall a few days ago for a copy of the city charter.

Calling of Meetings

When, a few days ago, Commissioner Warnock sent a clerk to the mayor to request his Honor to call a special meeting of the municipal council, the latter smiled and expressed surprise that such a well-informed official should place himself under obligation to call a meeting over a special meeting which he might have called himself, for section 23 of the charter states that the mayor has the right of calling the municipal council (Mr. Warnock), or any two members of the council can call a meeting at any time by giving each member written notice of the meeting prior to the time of the proposed meeting.

Public Market Situation

A man went into a local market a few days ago and asked the price of tomatoes.

"I am selling them for the same price that the public market is getting for them. But we'll attend to Mr. O'Donnell next fall when he comes up for re-election," was the alleged answer.

On the street car recently a man remarked:

"The farmers are having a cinch these days but wait until winter when it is too cold for them to stand outdoors, then the dealers will refuse to buy from them and they'll be stuck."

A week or more ago in accordance with a plan laid down by the national committee on food conservation the vegetable market was opened in this city to which farmers could bring their produce direct to the consumer thereby giving it to the latter fresher and cheaper than could be done otherwise and consequently making the vegetable more attractive and attractive as a food a greater amount will be consumed and the most supply thereby conserve the market.

The market was simply a small feature in the solution of a mighty problem that faces the country as a result of the war. It is a war measure and simple, for the greatest good to the greatest number and those who thought it out forgot entirely that some of the dealers in the different cities and towns might be slightly affected as to their daily profits by the establishment of the public market. It was no drive against the marketmen; they weren't considered. But here in Lowell from the talk one hears, it would seem that some entertain the impression that the public vegetable market is a local political scheme devised and carried into effect by Mayor O'Donnell for the purpose of getting votes.

The market was opened many of the farmers who are selling goods at the market are not voters in Lowell and hence couldn't vote for the mayor if they wanted to, while some of them were voters for a dealer in the market.

Now this is a national affair and not a drive against the local grocers who sell flour, and the mayor and the municipal council are in no way connected with it. The idea is to conserve the country's wheat supply.

But to return to the vegetable market. It's a thing that will regulate itself. As long as the people can get fresh vegetables at a low figure by buying direct from the farmers so long will they patronize the farmers. If they can't, they'll go elsewhere.

Thus to see this. All of those little things such as refraining from using white bread; guarding against waste at the table, getting vegetables direct from the farmers; planting home farm gardens, and the 100 and 1 other small projects that the public has been asked to take up, may seem trivial at first glance but they are all component parts of a great system which is going to enable the United States to emerge from this war victorious, and that's what we are all hoping and praying for.

More About Markets

A well known farmer residing in the immediate vicinity of Lowell when asked his opinion of the public market idea said: "I think that in order for the market to be a success all the farmers should agree to go to sell their goods. I think there should be an early morning market for the store-keepers and those who wish to purchase in a wholesale way. Then the retail market would be a great thing for the small farmer as he could spare more time and get more for his goods. But in our case we raise so much that it would be hard for us to dispose of it all in a retail way. I think the market would work to the great advantage of the consumer. I like the idea of the market. The dealers have had it pretty soft in Lowell in the past."

The dealers, on the other hand, or some of them at least, complain that the public market is a loss to them. They say that in this city are allowed to come here and compete with men who pay rent and pay taxes in Lowell, getting their stands free and not being obliged to deliver the goods at the homes of their customers.

The hawkers and peddlers are watchfully waiting to see how the new project will affect them. In the past few years the number of peddlers going from house to house has decreased materially for they cannot compete with the big stores, who have been buying the big lots from the farmers at rock-bottom prices. A former dealer said: "The big stores drove me out of business for they could sell vegetables at a retail price lower than I could purchase them at wholesale."

As a general rule the poor consumer in the final analysis pays the freight; all increases fall upon him in the end. But if the public market is going to redound to the material benefit of the consumer, as is claimed for it, everybody will welcome and will patronize the market.

Decrease in Drunks

The police blotter last Monday morning, noted a remarkable decrease in the number of drunks, only a few arrests being made over the Sabbath and a majority of them were members of a "bottle party" who probably had secured their ammunition the night before. One result of the mayor's appointment of four anti-liquor men on the squad has been to cause proprietors and employees of licensed places to keep a strict and unrelenting watch upon their trade lest some drunk get a drink, and hence the amount of drunkenness is decreasing for which the public is thankful. The liquor doesn't like the close espionage maintained by the new liquor squad and some are quite outspoken about it. It is no more a secret that the liquor dealers and the matter will regulate itself in a short time. It has frequently been said that if Lowell ever goes on its case again it will be the liquor dealers themselves who will cause the change.

CORPORAL JACK FAIRBURN

Lance Corporal Jack Fairburn of the 8th Field Ambulance, Canadian Expeditionary Force, is visiting in Lowell and is enjoying every minute of his stay here. He lived in Lowell five years and has had the time of his life renewing old acquaintances since his arrival here from St. John, N. B., Saturday evening. He will be allowed a four days' furlough and will return to his headquarters at St. John this evening or by the early morning train tomorrow.

"It was my last opportunity to visit Lowell before going overseas," said Corporal Jack, "and I wouldn't have missed it for the world. I have some very dear friends in Lowell and I am enjoying every moment of my stay. When the war is over I will come straight back to Lowell. I lived in Belvidere with my uncle, Edward Fairburn, the Concord street market man, for five years and I think they were the happiest five years of my life. I was employed in the Merrimack mills and I went there yesterday to meet my old associates. I was there the greater part of the afternoon and I never enjoyed a visit more in my life."

"We expect to go overseas in September and I was glad to get a chance to come to Lowell before going across. Somebody said they thought it rather foolish of me to make the trip when I had four days to spend, but I replied that I would make it if I had my money my next month's pay. That was a joke, of course, but that's how I felt about it."

"I have had some very pleasant experiences during my short stay here. On Sunday I went to Tyngsboro to visit friends and when I got there I found they were away. It was somewhat of a disappointment to me and I was gloomily walking along the highway toward Lowell when an automobile swept by. It had gone but a little way when suddenly it stopped and a voice called out. I approached the machine and found that it was an ex-Canadian soldier who had called. He had been discharged on account of physical disability but he said his heart was still with the Canadians and he told me that his machine was not my service. I told him I had no place to go but Lowell, and he insisted on bringing me here. I have been very friendly and I am glad when the war clouds have cleared away."

Tribute to Canadians

Corporal Fairburn said there are quite a few boys from the United States in St. John. "They are all Canadian soldiers now," he said, "and they are all well and happy. I can't be impossible in St. John, for the people there are surely among the best in the world. I always admired the Canadians from the Maritime provinces and now I love them. There never was anything to excel the hospitality of the people of St. John and the boys at headquarters are like one big family. I doubt if soldiers anywhere receive such gracious treatment as in St. John. We are invited to picnics and there is always something doing to make it pleasant for the soldiers. The rich and the poor invite us to their homes and we will always look upon St. John as one of the happiest spots on earth and we will never forget the kindness of the people there. I had heard a great deal of Canadian hospitality and now I know what it means."

But there is a sad side to the scene here too. Wounded soldiers are arriving all the time and to see the poor fellows battle scarred and in many instances, without arms or legs, makes us feel as if we were only passing a year. But our turn is coming and I hope we will be as brave and true as the wounded soldiers of whom I speak. I wish you could meet and talk with them. They are the finest lot of fellows I ever met. And the one thing you would admire most of all is the fact that they do not indulge in bragging. It is difficult to induce a fellow with a leg or arm gone, or perhaps both, to tell you how it happened. It seems as if they must have taken a vow not to boast about themselves. But they are willing to tell of little tricks played upon them in the trenches and of the humorous happenings in the face of death. Besides, they are very friendly and some of the fellows going about St. John minus arms and legs."

The Swagger Stick

Corporal Fairburn were the very attractive uniform of the Canadian soldier with a red cross in a white field on his right sleeve. The uniform is very attractive and the corporal confessed since coming to Lowell there have been times when he felt the least bit embarrassed because of the many eyes thrown his way. He said he did not mind the uniform, he said, "but I think I do not stand looking over very well."

The corporal carried a swagger stick and of course his interviewers had to ask him about it. "You see," he said, "we carry the stick for a very simple purpose, that of keeping the hand or hands employed. It is supposed to give us a bit of a smart look and while carrying it we are not liable to so far forget ourselves as to put our hands in our pockets."

ERNEST FORD "TOUCHED" BY HARRY TATE

Judges Enright and Pickman presided over this morning's session of the police court, the former hearing a few cases during the early part of the session, after which Judge Pickman took the bench.

Harry Tate, a young man 18 years of age and who claims New York City as his home, but who has been working at the Ayer cottonmill, came to the city last night and during the course of his visit to saloons in Middlesex street, met Ernest Ford, Ford said that he would show Tate the city and take him to a place where they could have some fun. After the saloons closed, Tate went to a dining room in Middlesex street and put up for the night. Tate for $28.07 in money and before leaving, Tate placed the money under his arm and placed the latter under his shirt. After being asleep about 15 minutes he awoke and finding the contents of his pockets turned out to be a few dollars and making an investigation found that a $20 bill had been taken from him.

After he and Ford left the room and coming across Patrolman Boyle Tate told the officer that Ford had taken a $20 bill from him. Boyle charged and said he had but a couple of dollars and produced the money. But the officer upon searching Ford found a $20 bill under the band of his cap. Ford offered no explanation as to how he got it.

After his arrest, Ford said that Tate had given him the money, but Tate denied this. The court found Tate guilty and sentenced him to two months in the house of correction.

Obstructing the Sidewalk

Joseph F. Masterson, Walter Murray and Harry Lowmyer were charged with obstructing the sidewalk in the vicinity of Hosford square on July 31. Patrolmen P. Sullivan and O'Keefe testified that the defendants were three of a crowd of young men who obstructed the street in Hosford square and Patrolman Sullivan said that he had previously warned all three that they would be liable for arrest if they continued to obstruct the sidewalk. Dr. Jas. McCarty and Mrs. Ellen O'Leary, matron of the Children's Home, were called. The former testified that he had complained of boys hanging around the sidewalk near his premises, but could not say whether or not the defendants were the boys he had reported. Mrs. O'Leary, however, identified the defendants, but could not say that they were obstructing the sidewalk on the night in question.

The defendants denied that they were obstructing the sidewalk. Supt. Welch said he did not want to arrest the boys, but wanted them to understand that they cannot block the sidewalk and suggested that the case be continued for one month in order to see if conditions will improve. Walter Murray was found guilty and discharged, while Masterson and Lowmyer were found guilty and sentence suspended for one month.

For Non-Support

Patrick J. Cronin was charged with failing to provide for the support of his minor children. Mrs. Cronin said her husband had not given her any money for the support of the children since last January. Cronin was found guilty and ordered to pay $5 a week towards their support.

The case of Nellie J. Kelly, charged with drunkenness, was continued until Saturday. Martin Curtin was sentenced to ten days in jail.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The first men accepted in this state for service in the new national army will be called to the colors on Sept. 1. Orders to this effect received today by Charles E. Gurney, director of military conscription, from Provost Marshal General Crowder, stated that they would be called for the various camps between Sept. 1st and 15th. Fully one-third of the state's quota, according to Director Gurney will be called on the first day of next month.

Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the northeast department, announced that the cantonment at Ayer, known as Camp Devens, would be ready Sept. 1.

Second Call at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 8.—Fully 75 percent of the men examined by the exemption board in the seventh district, comprising a group of small towns in this part of the Connecticut valley have either been physically disqualified or have filed exemption claims, with the result that the board will call about 400 more men for examination, it was announced today.

Soldiers Go After Slackers

MALDEN, Aug. 8.—Judge Charles Bruce, chairman of one of the draft examination boards in this city, adopted energetic methods today to compel the appearance of eight men who had failed to respond to the call for physical examination. Under his orders a detachment of soldiers, accompanied by a patrolman, set out in an automobile with instructions to locate the men. They located one of the men within an hour and brought him before the board.

Wife Blocks Exemption

WORCESTER, Aug. 8.—During the examination of registrants for the draft army yesterday in the 1st Worcester district the telephone bell rang and Sgt. George N. Jeppson of the board answered.

"Is this the exemption board of district 1?" asked a female voice.

"It is," responded Mr. Jeppson.

"Well, you are to exempt my blank today. He is my husband. If he asks for exemption, don't pay any attention to him. He never has supported me or given me anything."

Blank asked for exemption, but the board will have another talk with his wife.

POORER CLASSES WIPED OUT BY STARVATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Conditions in Syria and Palestine are declared to be the "worst possible," by a confidential source, who says that the dire straits have just reached New York and reported to the American committee of Armenian and Syrian relief.

The source said that in the cases of typhus in Beirut when he left, owing mainly to a lack of medicine and scarcity of doctors, the poor and the weak have been wiped out by starvation, he said. In Lebanon, he saw many villages and towns without a single inhabitant.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 8.—Edward Shison, an instructor at the naval academy here, set a new world record yesterday by looping the loop 22 times in succession, 4000 feet in the air with Mrs. Robin Grey, of Norfolk as a passenger.

The Sunday Supplement of The Sun published every Saturday contains a red-hot sporting page contributed to by leading sporting writers of the country.

PURCHASING AGENT LEPINE TAKES ADVANTAGE OF THE POSTAGE STAMP MARKET

Purchasing Agent Maxime Lepine has bought 10,000 two-cent postage stamps for the various departments. This is the largest single order that has ever been given for stamps at city hall. The "sticker" came in 800 rolls of 500 each and cost $802.40. Three cents a roll extra is charged because the stamps are arranged especially for stamping machines.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Josephine Richardson, by the girls of the Newton bowling league, at the home of Miss Esther Armstrong, Friday evening. Miss Richardson was soon to become the bride of Mr. Allen Crafts, was the recipient of many useful and appropriate gifts, and although taken completely by surprise, responded in a fitting manner. A very pleasing musical program was given, including piano and vocal solos by Misses Laura Richardson, Marion Sanders, and Elizabeth Quin. The party ended at a late hour, wishing the bride-to-be joy and success for the future.

COMMUNICATION

Lowell, Aug. 7.

Editor Sun: Now that the municipal market is here to stay, why wouldn't it be a good idea to have more of them? The Anne street location is all right for some people, but if we could have several of these markets in the city it would be much more convenient for the people. As it is now most housekeepers have to do up in the morning to take a car to go to market. This consumes the greater part of a forenoon and besides the cost of car fare wipes out the amount saved in purchases. If we had a half dozen of these markets in different localities it would not be necessary to waste so much time and money to get there. The idea of a public market is a good one. Let's have more of them.

GENERAL ALARM FIRE IN CHILSEA

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—A general alarm was sounded in Chelsea early last evening for a fire in the rag shop district, which caused much excitement in Chelsea and adjacent cities, and attracted a crowd of more than 10,000 persons.

Dense clouds of smoke from smoldering burlap hung over Chelsea and Everett, and were noticeable in Malden and Saugus, in which direction the wind was blowing. The dense smoke gave rise to alarming rumors in neighboring cities.

Chief David M. Hudson of the Chelsea fire department called for aid from Revere and Everett, and both cities sent motor pumping engines, which rendered valuable assistance. The new 12-cylinder Revere engine had its first real test since it was placed in commission two months ago.

The fire was confined to a three-story brick building at 176 Elm st., owned by Philip Brownfield of Franklin avenue, Chelsea, and occupied mainly by C. G. Brinkman, dealers in burlap and burlap.

The building, which is of fireproof construction, was erected a year ago and was valued at $200,000. The contents of the building consisted of tons of burlap and bags which were solidly packed on the floor.

The fire was discovered at 7.24 and an alarm was sounded from box 241. The fire was followed by a second alarm from box 241 a few minutes later and another alarm from box 241 was sounded at 7.35, acting as a general alarm.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS TO OPPOSE GOVERNMENT

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 8.—German socialists will oppose the newly constituted government at Berlin on principle, the socialist newspaper "Vorwaerts" declared in a comment on the ministerial appointments.

"Persons so foolish as to expect a great gain in the direction of a parliamentary regime," says the paper, "will be disappointed." It also expresses the opinion that the presence of Catholic representatives in the government greatly increases the danger of a reaction.

It appears that Dr. Spahn, leader of the Catholic center party in the Reichstag, will be forced to retire from parliamentary life on account of his appointment as minister of justice.

He must resign his seat owing to the constitutional provision upon accepting the portfolio, but it is asserted that he is doing nothing to prevent his resignation for re-election. He will accordingly do this though he cannot become a member of the Reichstag.

August Worms, leader of the Flemish movement in Belgium, said in an interview in the Berlin Tageblatt that the aim of the movement was the re-establishment of a dual monarchy of the Netherlands and Flanders under the personal union of King Albert I.

Worms told Austria-Hungary as an example of the movement for free Flanders in free Belgium.

LABOR UPHEAVAL IN LISBON DESCRIBED

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 8.—A description of a labor upheaval in Lisbon, Portugal, on July 11, only briefly hinted at previously in cable dispatches, which resulted in the suspension of constitutional guarantees, was brought here today by Gilbert L. Robinson, secretary of the American Legation.

He said the troops were called out and that when a number of them were slaughtered by bombs, thrown among the crowd by the strikers, 85 civilians and 1500 were killed.

Mr. Robinson, who spent some time in Lisbon, said the strike was precipitated by the demand by all classes of workmen for a 70 per cent. increase in pay to meet the high cost of living, with a threat of a general strike if denied.

BAN JOHNSON HELPS TO ELIMINATE GAMBLING

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—President B. B. Johnson of the American League came here today to assist in the efforts of local club officials to eliminate the gambling element from the games at Fenway park. He said he planned to confer with the state police authorities to have the state board of gaming measures which he said had been proposed.

President Johnson announced that a purse of $500 would be given the best drilled team in the league and $100 for the military instructor of that team and said he would go to Washington within a day or two to ask the board to appoint a board of regular officers to act as judges of the drills.

THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Leading stocks were under general pressure at the opening of today's session, and copper and equipment falling back 1 to 2 points. Motors and secondary specialties made fractional recoveries, but selling pressure held, and the market scored slight advances. Supporting orders in U. S. Steel and the inquiry for transportation issues resulted in material rallies before the end of the first half.

Most movements became more confusing later, steel losing additional ground with other equipments while auto, shipbuilding and tobacco substantially augmented early advances. Bethlehem Steel new stock lost 3/4 and the old 2 1/2 with 1 to 2 points recoveries in second issues, motors and oils. Marine pfd. gained 1 3/8, American International 2 United Cigars 2, Tobacco Products 1 3/8 and American Woolen 1. Coppers advanced 1/2 to 3/4. Liberty bonds ruled 99.52 to 99.56.

Further shrinkage of prices occurred during the middle trading period, steel, copper and specialties generally. Auto and equipment recovered, and increased offerings. Rails also yielded, Canadian Pacific declining over 2 points and tobacco forfeiting much of their advance.

Offerings assumed the proportions of a liquidating movement in the last hour, losses in important stocks then extending from 3 to 10 points. The market was weak, Liberty bonds were quoted at 99.52 to 99.52.

Record for Bar Silver
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Bar silver rose to a new record of $24.00 an ounce in the local market today, the highest price since 1906, according to dealers.

The movement was concurrent with a new maximum for the metal in the London market.

THE LOWELL SUN

HAS HOOVER REACHED THESE?

Go into the country next Sunday, with two or three expensive hotels maintained for the auto trade on your list, and see what you will discover. There will be a long line of automobiles outside, and from a score to a hundred people within dining. At many of these wayside inns, especially at points fairly remote from the cities, prices are exorbitant. Even such drinks as lemonade retail as high as 40 cents an order. Yet the crowd is there week after week, buying not necessities, but luxuries.

At first sight one might assume that these are the very rich, who can afford to spend their money recklessly. But the very rich own their own country places, and go to a country club when they are dining out. No, these are the people who are living beyond their means. They don't yet know that we are really in the war, that taxes will be much higher in the fall, that the cost of running a home next winter may try the patience of men with moderate incomes.

Mr. Hoover will not have succeeded in his mission of conservation until he reaches these people. They are getting a pace that other foolish people are trying to follow, and disaster awaits them somewhere on the road ahead. They have not begun to practice self denial; they are not making their fair contribution to the success of the war.

It is to the women that Mr. Hoover especially appeals. Singularly enough the women in these automobiles outnumber the men. Are the men dragging them into extravagance, or are they pushing the men in ahead of them, to satisfy their craving for a good time? There is food for serious reflection here.

LIQUOR MEN DISTURBED

Certain liquor dealers in the city are said to be disturbed over the activities of the new liquor squad. Why should they be? While their licenses have cost them a round sum of money, they made the purchase with a full knowledge of the provisions. They are not permitted to sell liquor at all times or to all persons. There are numerous limitations, and the laws of the state require them, for the better protection of the public.

A liquor inspector cannot molest a dealer who is living up to the provisions of his license. He can, however, reach the man whose sole purpose is to make all the money that the business will stand, regardless of its limitations. Liquor dealers must not be blind to the fact that Lowell is so near to a year that much will be required of it when the military cantonment is opened there. If we do not keep our streets clean the state or the nation will require us to do so. If we do not curtail drunkenness to its minimum, we must expect prohibition to blot out the whole business. No aid is to be expected from the drunkard himself, because he is suffering from a disease that has him in its clutch. There remains only the man who sells the liquor. If he wants to remain in the business, he must measure up to whatever requirements the law imposes.

Before the winter is over American families may be asked to give up meat and wheat one day or more a week, as has been required in Europe. Nobody has yet suggested that the drinker give up his liquor one day in seven. He has not even been told to go without it on the Sabbath. But he ought to be willing at least to curtail within reason.

THE UNIVERSAL TOPIC

A woman reader of The Sun expresses the hope that some day the newspapers will cease devoting so much of their space to the war. The desire is sufficiently limitless to be realized in time. Yet what topic, not entirely trivial, touches the daily life of so many people? The man with a family thinks of the war whenever he buys meat, flour or shoes. The merchant comes back to it as often as he faces increased freight and shipping charges. In distant China and Africa men of another race and color have learned that because of the war cotton cloth comes less frequently and costs more. Even in the islands of half known seas remote people without newspapers know that the world is at war, and that it reacts upon them.

The war is the one thing that we cannot escape in the routine of our daily lives. It even imposes upon us an obligation to know more of the world than we had been taught in the listless days of our youth. For one cannot dismiss it with the banal remark: "I don't pretend to know anything about the places where the battles are fought. I just pay no attention to them." One ought to know. The free library in Lowell contains hundreds of books that have been added since the war began. Education in such matters requires neither college nor tutor, but an intelligent reading of the war publications so abundantly offered.

Do not try to get away from the topic of the war, because it is not possible to do so. Train yourself, rather, to discuss its many sides intelligently.

WOMEN IN THE FIELDS

The Taunton Gazette notes that it was not so long ago that women working in the fields were regarded

curiously. The place of woman was supposed to be in the flower garden; unless she happened to be the wife of an alien, when it was understood that she was helping the family maintain itself, or that she came from a land where she was little better than a beast of burden.

But the war has brought us to our senses. Native born women are not only doing their share of the lighter work in the fields, but they are deriving from it the physical benefit that men have enjoyed. One of the tragedies of the New England farm has been the overworking of the woman in the house, and the better care of the husband and sons in the field. When woman shares outdoor work she gains its respite as well as its burdens. At the end of the week she is probably in better condition physically than though she had spent all her time within doors on the vexing cares of the household.

The end of the war, whenever it comes, will give women the right to return to their flower gardens if they choose. The shortage of food in the world will no longer put the obligation of service upon them. But if they are wise they will retain the honorable right to share in the outside work as much as they may desire. The world will not criticize them hereafter. It will have ceased to define a lady as a woman who never soils her hands with toil.

A SILLY ALARM

A socialist addressing an audience of some size on Jackson street on Monday night, warned all workingmen within his hearing that laborers were about to be imported into the United States from Porto Rico. He intimated that they were being brought in by the capitalists to take jobs away from American workmen.

This is silly talk. In the first place, the Porto Rican is himself an American citizen. In the second, there is such a scarcity of labor in the country at the present time that nobody is in danger of losing his job, except through open disloyalty to the United States. In less than a month half a million young men are to be taken from the industries of the country to enter the army. The few thousand men and women who may come over from Porto Rico to work will supply only an insignificant part of the readjustment that will be necessary in our industries.

The north has been so short of workers for a year that negroes have been coming by the thousand from the south, which now feels the shortage there. The west is begging for laborers to save the harvests. The railroads need men. Munition plants are to further expand within the next six months.

Both England and France have been forced to import labor in order to keep their industries and their agriculture up to requirements. This country will do well to anticipate the need and provide for it. But alarm over the coming here of colonial citizens is silly and quite unwarranted.

Resinol is sold by all drug stores.

Didn't Think Quick Enough

Before introducing Lieut. de Tesson, aid to Gen. Joffre, and Col. Fabry, the "Blue Devil of France," Chairman Spencer of the St. Louis entertainment committee, at the M.A.A. breakfast, told this anecdote:

"In Washington Lieut. de Tesson was approached by a pretty American girl, who said:

"And did you kill a German soldier?"

"Yes," he replied.

"With what hand did you do it?" she inquired.

"With the right hand," he said.

"And then the pretty American girl seized his right hand and kissed it."

Col. Fabry stood near by. He strolled over and said to Lieut. de Tesson:

"Heavens, man, why didn't you tell her that you bit him to death?"—Kansas City Star.

Giving Life for Peace

While the difficulties in the way of re-establishing peace between the contending nations of Europe are in mind, it might be helpful to consider the manner in which two Alaskan tribes, the Stikkeen and Slicken once settled such a matter. The late John Muir narrates the facts. The bloody feud had lasted all summer, for the parties were evenly matched, and they were all likely to starve in the winter because the women dared not go out to fish or pick berries. But one day a Stikkeen chief appeared between the camps and called for a parley.

"My people are hungry. They dare not go to the salmon streams or berry fields for winter supplies, and, if this war goes on much longer, most of my people will die of hunger. We have fought long enough; let us have peace. You brave Slicken warriors go home, and we will go home, and we will all set out to dry salmon and berries before it is too late."

The Slicken chief replied:

"You may well say let us stop fighting when you have had the best of it. You have killed ten more of my tribe than we have killed of yours. Go tell the Stikkeen men to balance our blood-account; then, and not till then, will we make peace and go home."

"Very well," replied the Stikkeen chief, "you know my rank. You know that I am worth ten common men and more."

The offer was accepted. The chief gave himself up and was shot down in his tracks, in sight of both tribes. One man died for many, and peace was restored.—Christian Advocate.

hammocks, and 7 o'clock was the earliest they might turn out.

Every lady, when turned in, had to wear her stockings; no man—under penalty of flogging (they flogged men for sneezing out of turn in the navy in those days)—was allowed to wear his stockings in his hammock.

In the morning, when the hands were called, every person had to "show a leg." If the leg was incased in a neat black stocking its owner was said "fall right; carry on, sleepin'." While I bare the seaman was bundled out at once.

Occasionally a prowling ship's policeman would have his suspicions of the sex of the form which bulged some part.

"Show a Leg"

"All the hands! Heave out, heave out, lash up and stow! Show a leg there, show a leg!"

And leather-lunged boswain's mate shrilled keenly on his whistle and repeated his note, as above—the formula prescribed from time immemorial for the rousing out of the sailorman in the morning. And almost immediately the tall chorons of the ship's police and quartermasters, with an assistant marine corporal of the gangway swelled the refrain.

All over the ship, in mess decks and "dats," the sailormen roused, rubbed their eyes and endeavored to snatch "just another five minutes."

"Show a leg!" The call is a relic of the old, old days—be they good or bad—when the British sailorman was allowed to take his wife to sea with him. In every ship which flew the white ensign the women were a conspicuous feature and frequently accompanied their husbands to the corners of the earth.

Families thus carried were inexpensive, but at times the ladies got in the way. For instance, in the morning, while the ship was being scrubbed, they were compelled to remain in their

RULES FOR THE DRAFT ARMY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder and his assistants are at work on the final regulations to be promulgated this week to complete organization of the selective draft war army. They will govern actual mobilization of the men selected.

Statements issued yesterday by the war department show that preliminary figures place the total force of National Guard taken into the federal service Aug. 6 at 13,993 officers and 110,000 men. Another statement showed that 180,785 war volunteers have been recruited for the regular service since April 1, leaving only about 2000 vacancies in the regulars at war strength.

These figures mean that approximately 725,000 men are now under arms, exclusive of the navy and marine corps, to be supplemented within a few weeks by 687,000 raised under the selective draft bill. Of the latter number about 500,000 will compose the third or fourth of the war army, the national army, and the rest will go to fill up the regulars and the guard and their reserves.

To Assign Drafted Men

The mobilization regulations will show how the drafted men are to be assigned. The war department has received countless applications from men certain to be called in the first increment of the draft forces for assignment to some particular arm or branch of the service.

Where a man has been summoned by his local board for physical examination no method exists whereby he can enlist in the regulars until he has his service count on the home quota.

It is probable, however, that some effort will be made to meet the wishes of the drafted men in this regard, as far as possible, when they are mobilized. It can only be done to a limited extent, as the regulars and guard, as shown by recent statements, are practically full now.

The war department has taken over recruiting for the national guard, as well as the regulars, the entire guard having now become a part of the army of the United States and having no connection with the states.

Yesterday's statement says that about half the men applying for enlistment are within the draft ages. Those accepted will count as credits on subsequent quotas of their districts. The statement thus stresses, however, on the fact that the country wants all the men it can get who can be spared at home.

The National Guard statement shows that only the number of men short of the 419,531 figure, shown by checking of the muster rolls by department commanders and the selection of any found unfit, will be taken from the draft forces for the guard service.

The recruiting service expects to fill the regular army to full war strength tomorrow or next day, so the men will probably will be a surplus of 150,000 or more men when the full 687,000 of the first increment of the national army is assembled.

In addition, recruiting throughout the country will supplement the excess, all men who volunteer going into the regulars or the National Guard or into the reserve after full war strength is reached.

Ranks to Be Kept Full

It is regarded as likely that the mobilization regulations, soon to be issued, will show that the surplus of drafted men is to be used as a recruit reservoir and that all the men will be put under training as quickly as possible. A recruit depot will be established in France from which regiments at the front will be kept filled up with drafts of men from the main recruit depot in this country being sent over to this distribution center as needed.

In the same way, sick or wounded men will be returned to the front when recovered and a steady flow of recruits to maintain active regiments at the top fighting efficiency will be provided.

The only hint of the probable method of mobilization of drafted men lies in a recent ruling by Gen. Crowder, which shows that the adjutant general may summon the quotas of the districts in increments. Division of each quota into five equal parts is suggested, each part to be called up separately, as needed. Under the arrangement it would be possible to call out at once the men to form the new national army, and to summon later those who are to compose the reserves for the national army. Men temporarily needed in harvest fields or elsewhere could be classified by local boards into these later increments to meet emergency conditions in their districts, without delaying organizations of new forces.

POLICY FOR MAKING WAR PURCHASES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The war industries board continued its sessions today and was expected to announce a definite policy for making war purchases. The program will deal mainly with priority of manufacture and shipment of goods, it is believed.

The administration intends that the allies shall share with this government in reduced costs for supplies and if negotiations with producers fail to obtain the desired results the government will go into the open market and will buy for them. The realization, however, that heavy government purchases will cause prices to soar with a consequent hardship on private consumers is causing some concern.

In Over Million Homes They Know

Plant Juice Being Introduced Here, Is Fast Becoming a National Remedy

Speaking of a group of prominent citizens, The Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at Dows, The Druggist in Merrimack square, said:

MRS. MINNIE CHARD.

"It is now an accepted fact that 90 per cent of all sickness can be traced directly to a deranged stomach, and I can safely assert that in all of my experience I have never even heard of a formula that has as rapid and permanent an action on such ailments as stomach, liver and kidney trouble, as Plant Juice has. This preparation will soon become a national remedy, and the people in Lowell, like other cities, where Plant Juice has been introduced, are giving me signed statements in regard to the benefit they have received."

Mrs. Minnie Chard, of No. 51 Brookings street, Lowell, recently stated:

"I have been bothered for the past three months with a very severe attack of rheumatism in my limbs, and my stomach was also in a very weak condition, so that I could not keep any solid food on it; I could not sleep at night, had headaches, was nervous and dizzy. I was told that I had nervous indigestion and had tried all kinds of medicine and was under treatment for years, but never got any permanent relief, until I started to take your Plant Juice. The result is more than satisfactory and my rheumatic pains are about gone; I sleep well and am able to eat anything I want without the least distress. I am glad to give this public endorsement for Plant Juice."

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggist's in Merrimack square, Lowell, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

OPEN SEASON ON BUSH'S LASSELS LIQUOR DEALERS CHARGED WITH LAW VIOLATIONS

The commissioners on fisheries and game call the attention of hunters to the dates of the open season on shore birds in Massachusetts according to the federal regulations on migratory birds.

Black breasted and golden plover, winter and summer yellow legs, August 16 to November 30, both dates inclusive.

Gulls (except coots and gallinules), September 1 to November 30, both dates inclusive.

Jacksnipe, coots (blue peters) and gallinules, September 16 to December 31, both dates inclusive.

All the above-named birds may be taken.

Contrary to the general impression that has been current lately, there will be no open season on any other shore birds.

PHINNEY BOYLE LOST TO PATSY CLINE

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Patsy Cline of New York was declared the winner over Phinney Boyle in the first round of their 12-round bout at the Armory A.A. last night. Boyle was on his feet, apparently able to continue, when the referee stopped the fight at the corner and awarded the bout to Cline.

Cline went after Boyle like a whirlwind and whalloped him hard. In one of the exchanges Boyle caught Cline on the nose with his right hand and the latter came close to going to the mat. Once Boyle went to the mat without being hit, being down until the count of nine.

Boyle was stopped by Matty Farrell of New York in the second round of their bout. Young Travers of Boston stopped Jones of Nevada in one round. Johnny Buckley and John Buckley fought eight rounds, Buckley being given the award.

LOCAL BASEBALL LEAGUE WOULD GO WITH FANS

One more game and the comparative merits of the Broadways and Pitts' South Ends will have been decided. Then will follow two or three games between the winner of the series and the C.M.A.C.'s, or Lawrence Mfg. Co., and then the championship will have been decided according to the series played, with still a large number of Thursdays and Saturdays for baseball still remaining.

Lowell is without professional ball and must have the game. The semi-professionals have shown their ability to provide quite as interesting games as the regulars have done in the past.

Then why not let the local league to play on Thursdays and Saturdays, or on Saturdays only for the remainder of the season?

There are five leading local semi-pro teams: the South Ends, representing the South End; the Broadways, representing the North End; the C.M.A.C.'s, representing the French-American element; the Lawrence Mfg. Co., representing the textile workers; and the Pitts' South Ends, representing one business concern, has shown a capability to play the game and draw a crowd. Another team could be gotten up of six semi-pros, or a nice little four-team league, or a nice little three teams named and one of the other two to complete the quartet. Available for places at which to stage the games are the two commons, Spaulding park and the grounds of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. A schedule could be easily arranged whereby each team could have an equal number of dates at Spaulding park where an admission is charged, while the teams playing on the commons could pass the hat as has been the custom and take their chance, which would be a good thing for one or another. The season could run until the first part of September, as it will be recalled that last year the best semi-pro games of the entire season were played after Labor day. The stores will remain closed on Thursday afternoons during September, and the store clerks claim that Thursday baseball would pay in the city. Whips Thursday might be a bad day for the players, but the most of whom are employed during the week, but in that event only Saturday games need be played, one set of teams having Spaulding park, while the other set or sets, as the case may be, could have the commons.

The proposition looks good and the managers of the different teams should get together and talk it over.

DIAMOND NOTES

Constantine is still mowing them down, but all are waiting to see him pounce against the Broadways or the South Ends.

How are you betting on the next game between the Broadways and the South Ends?

Some of the players who are now performing on local diamonds would strengthen some of the weak spots in the Eastern league if given an opportunity.

All of the old-time rooters who have been going to Boston to see the games held at home to see the contest at Spaulding park on Saturday and all were well satisfied.

The Lowell crowd who went to Roxford on Sunday got there in time to see a few innings of the ball game on the camp grounds. McPherson's Battery B team defeating a team from Andover.

Billy It's playing in professional style at third for the Broadways.

It didn't take the C.M.A.C.'s long to get Weist to that Lawrence pitcher on Saturday.

It's a poor day when Pare of the C.M.A.C.'s doesn't get a hit.

Paul Clark can play any position in the South Ends line-up but the mound, while Billy Falls can take on any job for the Broadways.

The fellows who have been telling us that Devlin has nothing but an outshoot were treated to a surprise in Saturday's game.

For coolness and steadiness none of the pitchers has anything on Sturtevant.

Heston and Desmond are two dandy catchers. But Condie should observe Jimmie closely and cultivate the art of keeping cool under trying circumstances, such as a punk decision.

"Hickey" Lyons showed them what a mistake it would have been to have benched him in the game. It he could connect at the bat a little often he'd be a bright star. Likewise Jimmie Gallagher, who is a star infielder but a rather different batter.

If the Kimball team isn't as strong a team as the person as formerly, it's not the fault of the man after whom the team is named. "Kim" himself wants championship stuff.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Bus's Lassie, winner of the M. & M. and Puper Mills $10,000 stakes, was slightly off form yesterday and was disappointed by the backers by losing the $5,000 purse for 2.12 trotters in a five-hundred thriller.

The mare sold for $200 in the early part of the year, but she is selling around $75 against her. Lassie was as neat as a pin in her work, winning the first heat in 2:04.1, the fastest mile by a trotter in the series.

There was another trotter that had a mile exactly as fast to offer, and her identity became a known quantity in the second heat, when Leon McDonald drove Bus's Lassie into the ground, winning in precisely the same time with Early Dreams. Cox could not hold her off, but she was better than the fourth mile, and Early Dreams repeated her second heat victory.

Ima Jay, making her first start for the year, got a good lead in the fourth heat and she went a smashing 2:05.1 mile that Early Dreams could not reach. Her real race was in the fifth heat, after victory right from the wire and Ima Jay was beaten by more than a length.

The victory brought to Mr. McDonald the cup of large dimensions from the association for being the winning driver of the first offering of the S. and S. State.

There was a lot of betting on the 2.11 pace, but Hule selling for $300 to $220 for the field. This race was the favorite win without great difficulty. The Real Love, who was fined $25, charged with not trying to win with Little Battle in the first heat, the 2.13 trot was handled with a good effort, but she was not a favorite. The attendance was near capacity.

Ben Billings is ill with the distemper, his last engagement having been canceled. Peter Look was taken ill with congestion of the lungs Monday night, but is better today. Tomorrow night, the Real Love, who was a champion of last year, is also slightly under the weather. The summary:

ALL FAVORITES LOSE AT WOONSOCKET

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 10.—The talent received a jolt on the opening day of the Bay State Short Ship races here yesterday afternoon, not one favorite finishing at the head of the summary.

The big surprise of the afternoon was the 2.22 trot, when Phinney Boyle, winner at Weymouth last week, was distanced in the second heat. Albie Delmar won easily, falling behind only in the second mile.

Lester Dore drove a winner in the 2.11 pace with May Day. Early Dreams made a hard try to get Andy Ashland home first, but the Bedford horse broke in every mile just as he was in the stretch and leading.

Lady Amish had no trouble in taking the 2.24 pace from a large field in straight heats. The summary:

As a result of the activities of the members of the recently appointed liquor squad the licensees of three saloons appeared before the license commission last night to answer complaints charging that they were violating the conditions of their licenses by either selling or delivering liquor to intoxicated persons. Charges were preferred against the Franklin Wine Co., 462-187 Middlesex street; Thos. P. Lane & Co., 135 Cross street; and Marjorie Moran, 300 Salem street, after hearings had been given the cases were taken under advisement.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the commissioners will give a hearing to M. F. Brady & Co., 51 Fletcher street, and it is expected that several other liquor dealers will be brought before the commissioners at an early date.

Owing to the number of witnesses and the lack of space in the quarters of the license commission, the hearings were held in the police court room, where these three were taken.

Ward, commissioner of public property and license, and William C. McNamara, Jr., secretary of the local non-license league, who took copious notes, Franklin Wine Co.

The first case taken up was that against the Franklin Wine Co., it being alleged that on Tuesday, July 24, the clerk in the employ of the company, one John Koefe, had sold intoxicating liquors to one Michael Spellman, an intoxicated person.

The first witness called was Inspector George B. Palmer, who testified in part as follows:

"I, George B. Palmer, and I visited the saloon of the Franklin Wine Co. about 4 o'clock on the afternoon of July 31. As we entered I saw a man standing at the bar who was drinking. He had a glass of beer in front of him and after we had seen him drink some of it we went over to the bar, took the glass away from the man and, tasting it, found it was beer. He then asked me if I had served the beer and he said 'Yes.' The clerk said that he thought the man was all right, and added, 'If the man is drunk, why don't you arrest him?' And he placed the man under arrest. The man was brought before the police court the following morning and after being found guilty of drunkenness was given a $100 fine and a term of two months in jail." Inspector Palmer also added that he had seen the man put out of the Richardson house bar shortly before entering the saloon of the Franklin Wine Co.

Supt. Welch informed the commissioners that the contents of the glass taken out of the bar at the Franklin had been analyzed by the state police, and found that it contained almost 6 per cent alcohol.

Patrik Keyes, treasurer of the Franklin Wine Co., said he visited the saloon every afternoon at 7 and 7.30 o'clock at night, and that Mr. Brennan and Mr. Linnehan are the men who look after the place. He said that there are eight men employed in the place and that six of them are teetotalers. "Our orders," he said, "are that no man under the influence of liquor shall be served liquor. We try our best to keep a clean place, and we have 100 people go in and out of that store every day, and I should judge that at least 100 who enter the place never leave a nickel there, it being used as a public house by the community."

"A short time ago I came to the superintendent and asked to have an officer stationed at the place in order that he might keep the place clean and so far as I can learn that officer has performed his duty. I do not want to doubt the veracity of the officers who testified tonight and I am sure that the state police have tried to keep the place clean and we have tried always to run that store as near right as possible."

The commissioners then took the case under advisement.

Thomas P. Lane & Co.

The next case called was that against Thomas P. Lane & Co., it being alleged that the company had sold intoxicating liquors to an intoxicated person in the presence of Inspector George B. Palmer and Officer J. Dwyer, on the afternoon of July 28. Mr. Lane, through his counsel, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

Inspector Palmer said that he and Inspector Dwyer visited Mr. Lane's saloon at the corner of Crosby and Franklin streets about 3 o'clock on the afternoon one week ago Saturday. They saw two men standing drinking at the lower end of the bar. After a few minutes the bartender, one Joseph Brogan, said he was standing at the bar when the inspector entered and also saw the man who it was alleged had been intoxicated. He stated that the man was perfectly sober.

Mr. Moran said that he had not been drinking and had not been seen by the inspector. He said that he had been drinking and had been seen by the inspector. He said that he had been drinking and had been seen by the inspector.

Hanson said he thought it would have been a pretty good time to arrest the man at Callahan's if he were intoxicated. Welch again tried to show the man, condition had an hour before he entered Lane's saloon, which he caused Commissioner Dwyer to release. He said that the man was not drinking the liquor in Lane's saloon. "Why didn't you call Mr. Lane's attention to the fact that the man was drinking the liquor in Lane's saloon?" asked Mr. Dwyer. "He had part of the glass drunk."

Mr. Lane Testifies

Thomas P. Lane, proprietor of the saloon, said he had been in the liquor business for the past 11 years and had never before been complained of. He denied that he served intoxicated persons, but admitted that he had served the man in question, one Matthew Doyle, who is known as "Doctor" Doyle. He said he saw nothing wrong with the man, but that he had served him.

"Doyle came into my place shortly before the officers," said Mr. Lane, and said to me your friends (meaning the officers) and I had a drink. I said to the man, 'You are drunk, whereupon he said, 'Do you think I am drunk?' and when they asked him to drink, he said, 'I won't drink any more, and walked out of the place.'"

"Why didn't you bring this Doyle man down tonight?" asked Supt. Welch. "I didn't think it necessary," answered Mr. Lane.

"Did you ever know him to work?" asked Supt. Welch. "Yes, from his own word, he was working at the time," answered Mr. Lane. "He was working at the time," answered Mr. Lane.

Philip Connors, who was in the saloon at the time the officers entered, said that Doyle was perfectly sober. John Doyle, who was in the saloon at the time the officers entered, said that Doyle was perfectly sober. # FAKE ASSASSINS IN RUSSIA

PETROGRAD, June 20. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Among the novelties which Russia's revolution has presented to the world is the profession of fake assassins. In other countries only persons suffering from hallucinations claim to have committed murders of which they are innocent. Here, as a result of Nicholas' overthrow, being as an assassin is a highly profitable, if transitory, branch of business.

Terrorists released from Siberian convict jails and exile villages are, naturally, made heroes. They are given free train accommodations, free dinners, free clothing and gifts of money. When they reach their native towns they are acclaimed as martyrs of liberty and their reception is a triumphal procession. Catherine Smirnov, who has been arrested in Moscow, announced that she had murdered M. Ivanoff, governor of Odessa, and described with pathos her sufferings in the Arctic wastes of Yakutsk. Smirnov levied tribute and was presented with bouquets. An unkindly inquiry disclosed that Odessa never had a governor named Ivanoff and further that Catherine Smirnov had been in Odessa as a sister of mercy and after swindling 10 charitable citizens had

On the Premises, the Following Described Real Estate

Located on the easterly side of Livingston Avenue, Lowell, being distant southerly from Middlesex street, 400 feet to the northerly line of said premises, which consists of a choice lot of land containing more than 14,000 sq. ft. on which is a choice grove, containing several stately shade trees, which makes the site attractive to any person looking for a home location to build upon. Livingston Avenue is one of the popular residential streets in the Highlands. The homes built thereon being substantially constructed, ample and attractive. Sewer, gas and city water pipes and good street surface are among the improvements. Bounded on the south by Princeton boulevard (electric car service close by at that point), and 400 feet distant at the Middlesex end of the avenue from this lot.

Terms: One hundred dollars ($100) to be paid to the auctioneer when the property is struck off. Other terms made known at the time and place of sale.

By order of
W. D. RING,
Attorney for the Owner.

Saturday, Aug. 11, 1917, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

WE WILL SELL AT

On the premises, the following described real estate, situated in Billerica, on the distance northerly from Bennett Hall railway station, B. & M. R. R., on the westerly side of the road leading from Lowell to Boston, at Brown's corner. Electric railroad right there, within the town water district, and a very desirable neighborhood.

Consisting of a tract of land containing 21 acres of tillage and woodland. Extending from the main highway to the Concord river. 717 feet on said highway and more than 1300 on the river front, where camp sites are very desirable on account of the fine sandy beach, well adapted for bathing purposes, surrounded by attractive, shady groves. Bordering on the river are the following buildings:

Cottage of seven rooms ready for plastering, another building, 25 ft. x 35 ft., cellars under both. This last building can be converted into a bungalow, ice house, nouttry house. Large shady trees in front of this camp. If lots bordering on the river were placed on the market they would find ready purchase. On the opposite side of the river are more than 20 camps now occupied. There is quite an apple orchard on the place and stately elms embellish the front on the highways.

Now then, real estate in this locality, between Lowell and Boston, for sale has become scarce and seldom on the market, and becoming more so. A most desirable piece of real estate when taking into account the opportunity to farm profitably, to use for recreation as a summer home, or for improvements. Steam cars, electric railroads and water at your door at the front, and splendid location on old Concord river at the rear, where for many miles boating may be enjoyed, make this place attractive.

Look the property over, attend the sale and secure a choice piece of real estate at auction.

Terms: Three hundred dollars ($300) to be paid to the auctioneer when property is struck off. Other terms made known at the time and place of sale.

Per order of
W. D. RING,
Attorney for the Owner.

been expelled by the military authorities. In the same city a healthy young man who described himself as a soldier volunteer, arrested in the street the invalid ex-governor, Gen. Phil. B. Smith, and a sympathizing crowd he denounced the general. "I am the innocent and unhappy man whom you seized," he exclaimed, "the people we shall show some mercy." In vain Gen. Philu explained that he had never seized an innocent man. He was hauled by the mob to the military office. The accuser meantime collected money and fled.

FIND YOUNG DE SAULLES FUNERAL OF FATHER

MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—An mystery about John Longer de Saulles, Jr., the four and a half year old son of Mrs. Bianca de Saulles, who shot and killed her divorced husband last Friday when he refused to give up the child to her care, was cleared today when he was found in the care of G. Maurice Hecksher, de Saulles' business partner. Counsel for Mrs. de Saulles was expected to make an appeal to Mr. Hecksher today that the mother who is confined in the county jail here on a charge of first degree murder, might be allowed to see her son. Should this appeal fail it was said legal action probably would be taken.

Mrs. de Saulles has been removed from the cell she had occupied to a room in the sheriff's apartment building on the recommendation of Dr. G. P. Cleghorn, the county physician.

The funeral services for de Saulles were held today.

Dows' Diarrhoea and Cholera Syrup in use over quarter of a century and stands at the head. All druggists keep it.

COLORADO TROOPS NOT TO GO SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—In connection with the mobilization of troops, the war department yesterday announced that colored troops will not be ordered to southern camps at this time. This applies principally to the colored National Guard.

"The colored troops will be left as a home guard for defense of their native states. They have been mustered into the federal service the same as the other militia organizations."

The 6th Infantry, which is now camped at Ayer, is the only regiment in Massachusetts that has a colored company.

The company is considered one of the best in the state. Its officers are all colored, as is every man in the company, and they have proved themselves good soldiers.

When the call came for troops and the National Guard was called out there was some talk of organizing a battalion of colored men in Boston and using Co. L of this city as a nucleus of the organization.

Last year, when the call came for troops on the Mexican border, the 6th Infantry was left out, and at that time many were of the opinion that the colored company was the cause of the regiment not being sent.

The above order was no surprise to the regiment, as the matter has been talked over for several days. Col. Sweetser has known about the matter, and it is said he has been assuring that the colored company would not deter the regiment being sent south when the time came for the movement.

It was thought at headquarters of the regiment last night that this matter was possibly the reason Col. Sweetser was called to Boston by Gen. Clarence R. Edwards for an interview.

Col. Sweetser could not be reached last night at his headquarters, he not having returned from Boston.

WOMAN TERRIBLY CUT BY GLASS FLOORING

HAVERHILL, Aug. 8.—Falling through glass sections of three floors in the Simonds building late yesterday afternoon, Miss Anne Kelley, aged 30, stenographer and clerk for Poor & Abbott, received so many dangerous cuts about her head, body and limbs that surgeons at the Hale hospital, whither she was taken, say it will be several days before she can tell positively whether she will recover.

In the corridor on each of the fifth, fourth and third floors of the building is a section about 10 by 3 feet of glass flooring, the glass being about an inch thick and the three sections serving as a light well. Miss Kelley was walking across this space on the fifth floor, where her employer's offices are, and either slipped and fell or the glass broke with her weight. She fell through all three of the glass sections to the second floor, a distance of about 35 feet, smashing the glass to bits as she went and receiving innumerable cuts all over her body. A large, heavy section one end of which rested on the light well on the fourth floor, went crashing after she fell, landed on her back, where she struck the second floor and was smashed to pieces by the impact.

The noise of Miss Kelley's fall attracted tenants of the building. They called an ambulance and the young woman was hurried to the hospital. When she recovered sufficiently to talk, Miss Kelley, notwithstanding her own serious condition, expressed the greatest anxiety to see her mother, who is an invalid, should hear of it and she asked that her mother be kept in ignorance of the accident.

The doctors found that the glass had severed two arteries in the young woman's head.

U. S. Government Indian Land Sale

THE GREAT NEW STATE OF OKLAHOMA rolls in liquid wealth. Thousands made rich. Oil hits tops at $1.70 a barrel. State produced 157,000,000 barrels last year. Throughout the oil fields are wonderful examples of fame and fortune gained at the rush of oil. Dan Tucker, 10-year-old boy, gets $130 daily royalty. Sarah Rector, colored child, receives $63,000 monthly. Henry Page, formerly railroad brakeman, gets $100,000 monthly from oil leases. Roy Johnson, a Michigan printer, cleared $200,000 on a $200 investment. Cole McGee, Oklahoma carpenter, made $23,000 on a $175 investment. M. Musselman, Syrian rug peddler, made more than $5,000,000 in four years on a $362 investment. Harry Sinclair, drug clerk, made $12,000,000 in three years in Oklahoma oil. Hundreds of others, purchasers of cheap Indian lands and heirs to Indian land allotments, have reaped huge fortunes from oil royalties.

OIL OIL OIL

The Private Oklahoma Indian Land Car now in Lowell, has been sent here for the purpose of advertising the opening of a half-million acres of Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian lands, located in South-eastern Oklahoma, which are now to be sold by the U. S. Government—on easy annual payments—ALL IN THE OKLAHOMA OIL BELT FOR THE INVESTOR AND SPECULATOR AS WELL AS THE HOME-SEEKER.

Opportunity warns, but it will not wait. You must act. Right now you have an opportunity that will not come again.

This is the chance of a lifetime, as the Government does not require you to live on these lands or improve them, and they can be bought direct from the U. S. Government at a few dollars per acre on easy payments. Irrigation not necessary. Forty-five inches of rainfall, agricultural, grazing and timber lands, close to railroads, and prosperous growing towns.

The Oklahoma Indian Land Car contains an extensive display of Oklahoma products, both agricultural and mineral, as well as numerous photographic views of western development. For those interested in the Indian lands we have maps, charts, blue prints, etc., and skilled demonstrators are on hand at all times to acquaint the public with the terms and conditions.

DON'T FORGET

The population of the United States doubles every thirty years, but there never will be any more land than there is today. Think it over. Open daily and Sunday, 9 to 12 M., 1 to 5:30 P. M., and 7 to 9 P. M.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—John Verplanck Nowlin of Whitford, Pa., an American field service member who was seriously wounded by a shell at his post on Aug. 3, died in a hospital at the front on Aug. 5. Nowlin was a Princeton student and was the second man from that university killed in field service within the past week.

The same shell which struck Nowlin wounded Julian Broome Allan of New York, the section's leader.

BRAKEMAN INJURED IN COLLISION AT LAWRENCE TRAFFIC 'TIE-UP'

LAWRENCE, Aug. 8.—East and west-bound traffic was tied up for three hours on the Portland division of the Boston & Maine last night when extra freight 2419 from Boston to Portland plowed into a train being made up for Salem east of the Parker street crossing.

Blanchard Hilbert of Portland, brakeman on the freight bound to that city, jumped just before the impact and suffered severe injuries to his spine, later being taken to the Lawrence General hospital. Engineer Kincaid of Somerville and his crew on the other train narrowly escaped injury.

PRICE OF COAL

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Practically all of the governors of 16 states from Pennsylvania to Kansas had responded favorably today to an invitation extended yesterday by the Illinois council of defense, to attend a conference in Chicago on Aug. 16, for the purpose of bringing about a uniform regulation of the price of coal.

While the state council of defense recommended to Gov. Lowden seizure of the coal mines in Illinois for the period of the war as a means of reducing prices the hope was expressed that the states of the central west will join in urging congress to enact a law that will confer full powers of control over coal prices and distribution in an administrative body of the federal government which would have machinery to give instant relief.

HEROIC BURGOMASTER OF BRUSSELS IS PRESIDENT OF BAR ASSOCIATION

HAVRE, Aug. 8.—Lawyers of Brussels have unanimously elected Adolphe Max, the heroic burgomaster of Brussels, imprisoned by Germans, as president of the bar association, according to news received here. The announcement of the election was received with rousing cheers regardless of the fact that German sentries were posted at the palace of justice where the election took place.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Central News agency quotes the newspaper Belgisch Dagblad to the effect that Burgomaster Max of Brussels is seriously ill in prison at Celle, a Prussian town 23 miles northeast of Hanover. King Alfonso of Spain is said to have intervened fruitlessly in behalf of the imprisoned burgomaster.

RANGERS RUSH TO QUELL APACHE UPRISING

GLOBE, Ariz., Aug. 8.—A force of mounted rangers led by Deputy Sheriff Dan Armer was expected to reach the scene today of the Apache-Indian uprising in the Sierra Ancha mountains, 50 miles northwest of here, where nine white men, employees of the asbestos mines in that region, were reported to be surrounded by a mob of more than 100 striking Indian and Mexican miners. A forest fire set by the Indians was sweeping the mountains.

Other forces of cowboys and forest rangers are hurrying to the imperiled white men from the front and from Roosevelt, while still others went by automobile to Rice, where they expected to obtain horses for the ride to the mines.

First news of the trouble which began yesterday when the Indians and Mexicans employed in the asbestos mine went on strike for higher pay was given last night in a telephone message from a forest ranger, who had ridden 25 miles to give the alarm.

Another telephone message said the nine white men in the camp had been driven into a dugout on the mountain-side and were surrounded by the Indians and Mexicans. The men in the dugout were said to be supplied with only a few rounds of ammunition and a small quantity of provisions.

Because of the lack of communication, all messages having to be carried 25 miles to a telephone, details of the uprising are few and far between, but reports indicated that two organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World, one a Mexican who spoke Apache, had been working among the men for the last week and had instigated the strike.
